A Day in the Life of...

What makes Northern different from any other high school? New assistant principals, Chip Mossett and Gregg Wagner, along with many new staff members and students, are experiencing the uniqueness of our high school and the distinct differences of our campus. The class of 2006 came into the halls of Northern not knowing what to expect, but most of all, not knowing what they may accomplish in four short years.

Northern is an amazing high school because of the incomparable qualities we possess. What high school has a Mardi Gras instead of a formal homecoming? What high school builds walls for Mardi Gras instead of floats for homecoming? What high school has cart races at half time of a football game? What high school has two games assemblies, and in these assemblies there is a running of the "Pep Bone", "Tug of War", and a "Grape Toss"? "Snow" to us means euchre, powder-puff football, soccer, volleyball, spirit week, and ends with a dance. What high school has "Air Band"? We are less than one mile from one of the world's largest bodies of fresh water. We have "The Rock" that encourages the students to make bold

We have many other factors that make us outstanding, some of these being the high level of academic achievement here. We offer a wide variety of advanced placement and college prep level classes. We have some of the very best teachers and coaches in the area, and as students, we are proud to be a part of their legacy. We have distinguished sports teams whether on the court, course, mat, field, rink, or track. Our Girl's Tennis Team has won five out of the last seven state titles, and Men's Hockey is always feared and respected on the ice. Other schools can't run with the best, and the best is "Husky Pride".

This year's yearbook attempts to focus on the special qualities it takes to be a Northern Husky. In a variety of ways, we illustrated the many obstacles of "a day in the life" of a Northern student. Our staff attempted to use the best design, creative sense, and photography making a yearbook worthy of the name Port Huron Northern Huskies 2002-2003.

School Spirit

Making a mad dash out of class, the majority of Northern's student body filed into the gymnasium to watch and participate in the intriguing competition of the games assembly. After a whole week of spirit some energy was released in the snow games. Winning the overall assembly was the class of 2003 Juniors. "We were pretty excited to win the grape toss for snow after we lost in Mardi Gras," said Trevor Semrow ('03). The juniors also dominated tug of war, beating first the freshmen, then the seniors of 2002, and then almost the teaching staff. And who could ever forget how the seniors took the officer game to another level with a giant chicken? Well it left an impression on the judges also, giving ('02) the win. We cannot leave the wheel barrow race unmentioned with the brave spirits of ('04) who dove into a pie of whip cream to search for a single starburst the fastest for their only win. They suffered a disqualification in tug of war, leaving the wheel barrow race as their only success. And then there are the inexperienced freshmen class of 2005 who didn't win any events, even after being exposed to school spirit back in Mardi Gras week. Overall, ('05) lost, with ('04) in third and ('02) in second to the ('03) juniors, even though a great effort was put in by all.

For spirit week it was just as crazy as the pep assembly with students walking around with underwear on the outside of their pants! Monday began with Get up and go day, so students got in Snow spirit wearing anything else extreme for extreme sports snow appalles day. Wednesday they got a little crazy, for crazy day. Thursday was famous person/ super hero day where people such as superman roamed the halls for a day. Of course the week ended with Blue and Gold day to show off school spirit. Spirit week is the time to get wild and crazy show what Northern means to you!

Where did you go on Spring break of 2002? Well it looks like most of the seniors hit up Cancun and Florida, while the rest of the school went all over. When Marcie Bush of ('02) was asked what her favorite part of Spring Break was she said, "The ocean was beautiful during the day and when the sun went down, the parties never stopped."

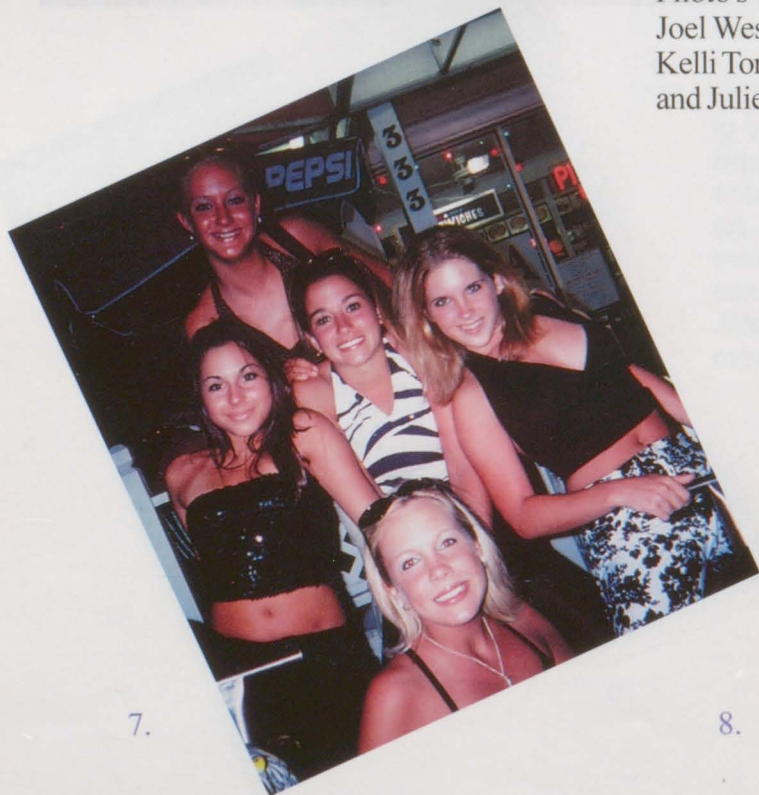

"Getting sick after coming home from Cancun was the worst part about Spring Break," moaned Lindsay Quandt ('02) and this is just some of the things that went wrong from Spring Break. "It rained for two days straight," recalls Ashley Kackman ('02), "and the activities just go down hill when it rains."

Activities that were covered over break were some like tanning, swimming, "hitting the waves" said Mike Rigney ('03), and meeting new people. Most everyone that went some where on spring break had a good time, and they could only wish it will turn out as good as it was last year.

The lights dim, the crowd cheers, and the excitement begins. To get the party started was the opening act "I'm too Sexy" mixed with some Spice Girls. One of the Spice Girls, better known as Rachel Mazur ('03) said, "I participated in Airband to relive the day when the Spice Girls were kickin'. It was the best time I've ever had!"

A huge crowd attended this big event. When Emily Smeltzer ('03) was asked why she went to Airband she replied, "I attended because I knew it would be a lot of fun and I got to dance with all of my friends." Although, not everyone attended Airband Stephanie Lynch stated, "No, I did not attend Airband because I had to be at my place of employment. I was utterly devastated by this and hope and pray that I can make an appearance next year."

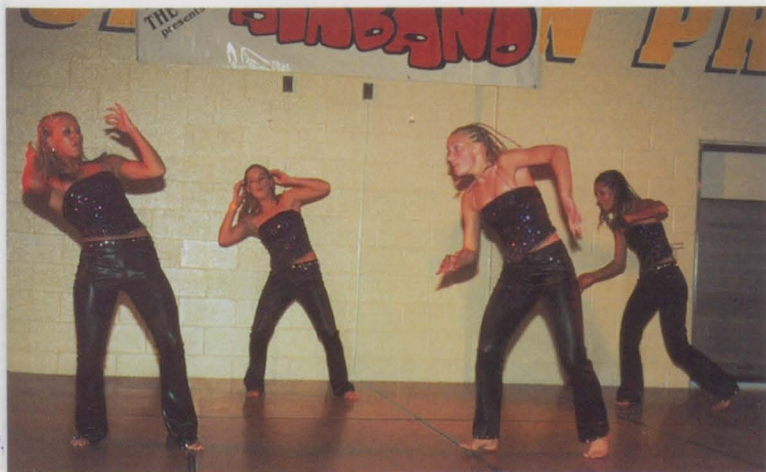

This airband was "Da Bomb." There was a bomb threat in the boy's restroom. When asked if the bomb threat made a difference in the success of Airband Matt McLaughlin ('05) said, "Not really. A lot of people were like 'oh, better be safe than sorry', so there were people that didn't show. But the truth is, PHN was safe and everyone had a good time." Airband is too big an event to be anything but fun!

Guitars blaring and voices wailing! That's how people would describe the second annual Battle of the Bands. For the most part the night went off without a hitch, with an exception of scheduling complications. With a flurry of great bands lined up, it was destined to be a night to remember.

From the opening with Carborn Dating to the headlining of Nefilum, the night was filled with rock music and new metal. Coach Dwyer and the baseball team did some "sing-a-long" intermissions with the help from the MC's Deidre Slingerland (02) and Peter Kamicka (03).

According to Josh Kooiker (03) of Nefilum, "Battle of the Bands gets better each year." The lineup of "home-grown" talent is more impressive each year. "I thought 'Impalement' was the best even though they were all good," says Tony Benke (04). Each year everyone is hoping to have a larger turn-out, in the audience as well as the bands. "We are looking for a wide range of musical styles to make the night more enjoyable for everyone," stated Coach Dwyer.

"My favorite part of Junior Prom was getting stranded without a ticket and having Mr. Rodenbaugh save the day," said Jennifer Cote (03') On May 4, 2002, the class of 2003 gathered at Wadhams Banquet Center from 7 till 11 for their big night. Students had dinner at a variety of restaurants such as Dorsey House, Thomas Edison Inn, Fore Lakes, Italian Villa, Pilot House, St. Clair Inn, Damon's, Fogcutter, and the Voyager. Sean Faber (03') said, " My most memorable moment of Junior Prom was at the restaurant after dinner. A woman who called herself Big Mama insisted on helping my group with picture taking." Though the small dance floor was crowded and the lights strung on the wall fell down, the class of 2003 danced the night away to "I've got Five on it." After the dance, some juniors went to parties or bowling while others went home or out to eat at Denny's. It was a very memorable night that will be cherished forever. -Niccole Burns

It was the night before senior prom and all around the halls there wasn't a graduated soul; not a drop out in sight. With all the seniors a waiting this night of lights, camera and "oh yes, action". The class of 2001 came together for their long awaited last dance. This night of remembrance was held at the Lexington Golf Club.

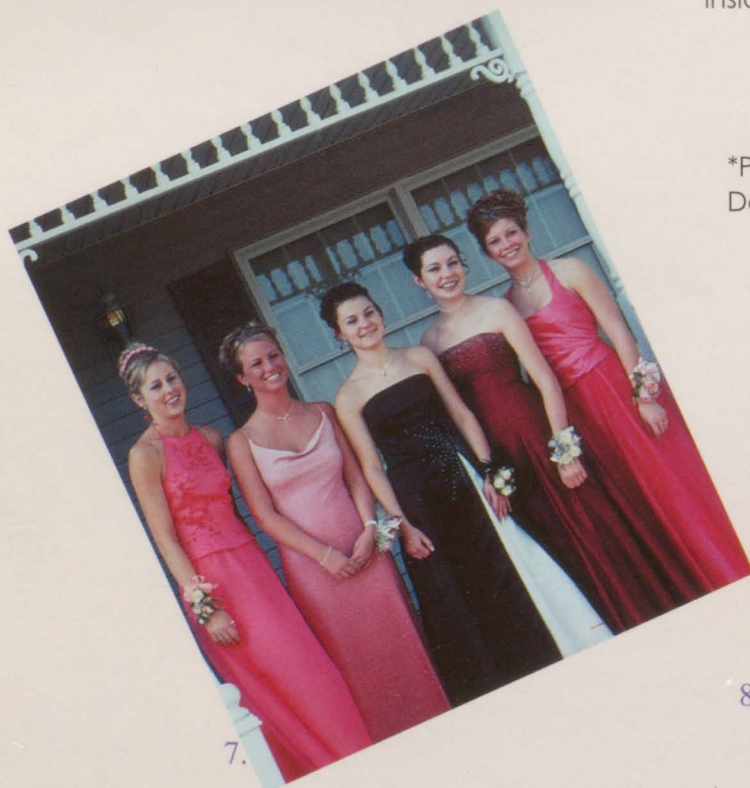

Butterflies were in every senior's stomach as they waited to have their names checked off at the front desk. You could hear laughing, cheering and stories of the past from their fellow students. This made you laugh also. With the positive air soaking into your skin you get in the dance and let loose and show off "Just what your mama gave you."

This night will always be remembered. All their close friends and other fellow class mates in one room celebrating the same thing. All negatives left outside the door. The future waiting inside the doors and beyond.

Imagine going through all of your years of schooling with the same people...that's 12 grades! With all the friendships, fights, homework, and sports, things at some point are bound to get stressful. But all good things must come to an end. And so they do.

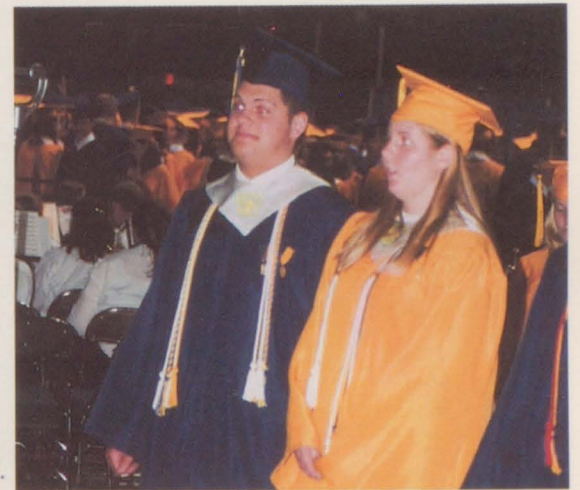

Senior year is a memory all in itself, but a quick one. They have mixed emotions from beginning to end. Anxiety and worries float in their heads about the future ahead of them. Breaking away from the people and things you're used to, things can get a little worrisome. "Getting ready for college and parting with all my best friends is the one thing I am most scared of." says Sara Jo Friend ('02).

Last football games, final grades, final goodbyes and spring breaks are always hard to deal with...but, all things must come to a close. That is just the part of being a senior that everyone has to accept. The fact that seniors get out of school two weeks earlier than everyone else also makes the accepting process a whole lot easier! While underclassmen are stuck in hot classrooms piled with work, Seniors are on the beaches, relaxed and care free. "Getting out before everyone was my favorite part of being a senior. Spending time with those who you will miss is hard to deal with and this just gives you time to cherish the moments you have left," states Kaitlin McNamee('02).

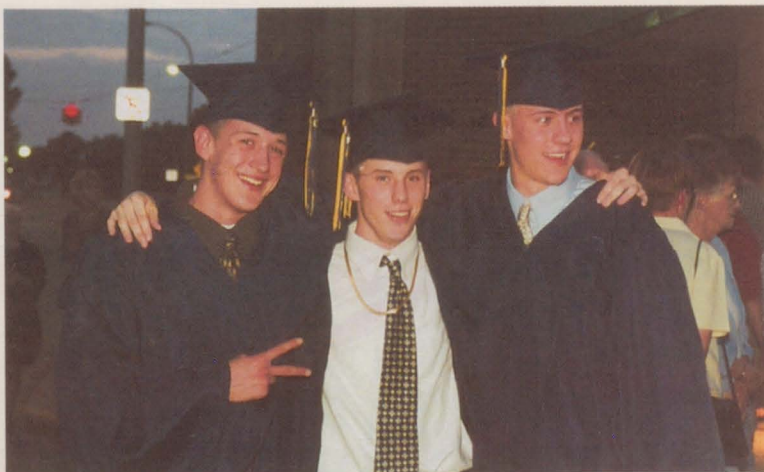

Closing time is not only affecting the seniors, but many juniors also have a hard time with their best friends leaving. "All my best friends are Seniors," states Jared Semrow ('03). "I'm really going to miss having those guys around." Senior year has it's perks and downfalls. It is also your outlook that will keep you intact for how you are going to handle your future.

The sun is shining, steam, is rolling off the sidewalks, everyone is in shorts and bathing suits, it's 98* outside... the beach is calling your name. Sound familiar? Oh yeah! Summer Vacation!

Many people spent summer vacation relaxing and having fun. Others spent their scorching days at the beach with friends close by. "This summer I enjoyed the wonderful weather and went to the beach getting a good tan", said Emily Walker ('03). Other were busy doing various activities outside, getting in shape to look "hott" in their stylish bathing suits, and catching up on drifted relationships. "I hung out with friends over the summer. I also worked hard to bulk up and get fast for football. I was really ready for some football", commented Steve Trask ('06)

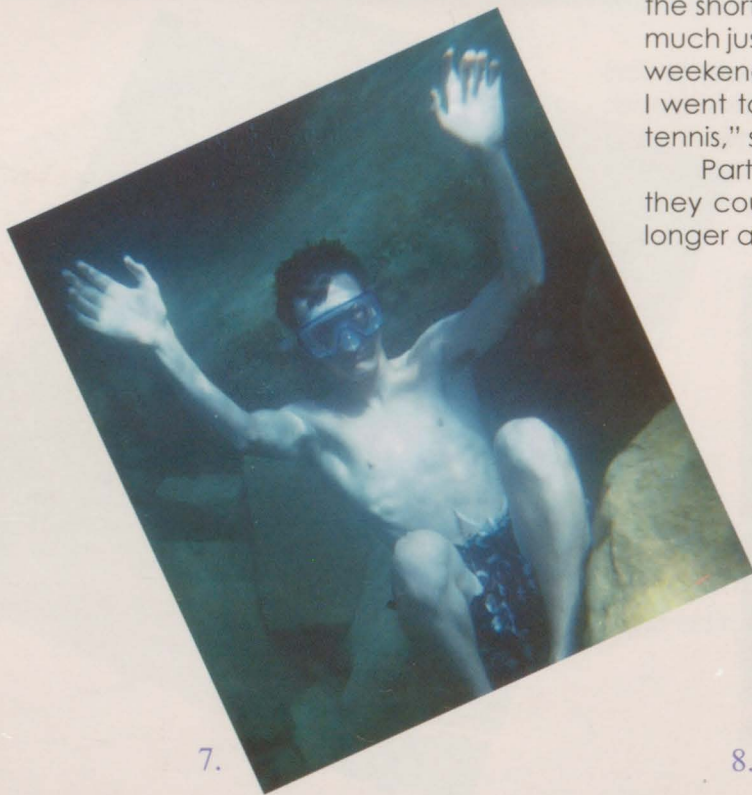

While some were already preparing for the next school year's upcoming sports at school, other "vacationers" had one thing and one thing only on their minds... to take a trip to the "wild side". "This summer I hung out with my friends and went to the beach. I went to Chicago for cheerleading camp and I also went to Cancun for a week!" said Tiffany Marzka ('04). Students did as much as possible in the short amount of time that they had to do it. "This summer I pretty much just played tennis and worked. I did go up to Traverse City for a weekend. I had a lot of fun on my jet skis, wake boarding, and tubing. I went to a few parties. But most of the time I worked and played tennis," said Greg Johnson ('05).

Partying, swimming, tanning, chillin'... is what everyone wishes they could be doing once again. We will just have to wait a little longer and the sun will be scorchin' before we know it!

On Monday October seventh for the first time in the class history, the class of 2003 won a Spirit Day! "Famous person and superhero day was Tyf and my favorite we always have awesome ideas!" said Lyndy Weitzel ('03).

The seniors became really involved this year, helping them to achieve first place in Spirit Week, wall building, the games assembly, and overall Mardi Gras. However the seniors literally fell apart during the cart race and the juniors took the win. Rachel Mazur ('03) said, "I love the football game and how everybody goes to support Northern. The whole week is tons of fun because of all the school spirit everyone has, even though we lost the game 41-6." Finally, on Saturday, the Mardi Gras Dance was held from seven to eleven where Queen, Lindsay Doss, crowned her king, Mike Rigney, Kevin Fleming ('03) said, "The music was great and I had tons of fun at the dance."

What Type Of Music Do You Prefer?

U of M vs. MSU

Where Do You Want To Live After Graduation?

ALTERNATIVE STYLES

They're the outcasts, the under-appreciated, the misunderstood, otherwise known as "skaters". Like it or not, certain cliques are always going to be coined with titles, so why not give recognition to the ones that usually go unnoticed? "Skating is something to do instead of trying to be a prep," remarked Larry Stover ('06), using another of our most frequently heard clique titles. "Indeed!" agreed Ben Nofs ('03). The vast majority of skaters do what they do simply because of their lack of other enjoyable options. "Sports just aren't very fun," Dylan Shippey ('05) explained.

One of the largest controversies in the local skating world is about Pine Grove Park. For years it has been the home of dozens and dozens of teenagers, expressing themselves through their skateboards. Recently, though, the city has attempted to ban them from dwelling there with unsuccessful over priced skateparks like X-Port. Larry Stover, feeling animate about this issue argued, "They should treat skating, BMXing, and inline skating just the same as basketball, hockey, and football."

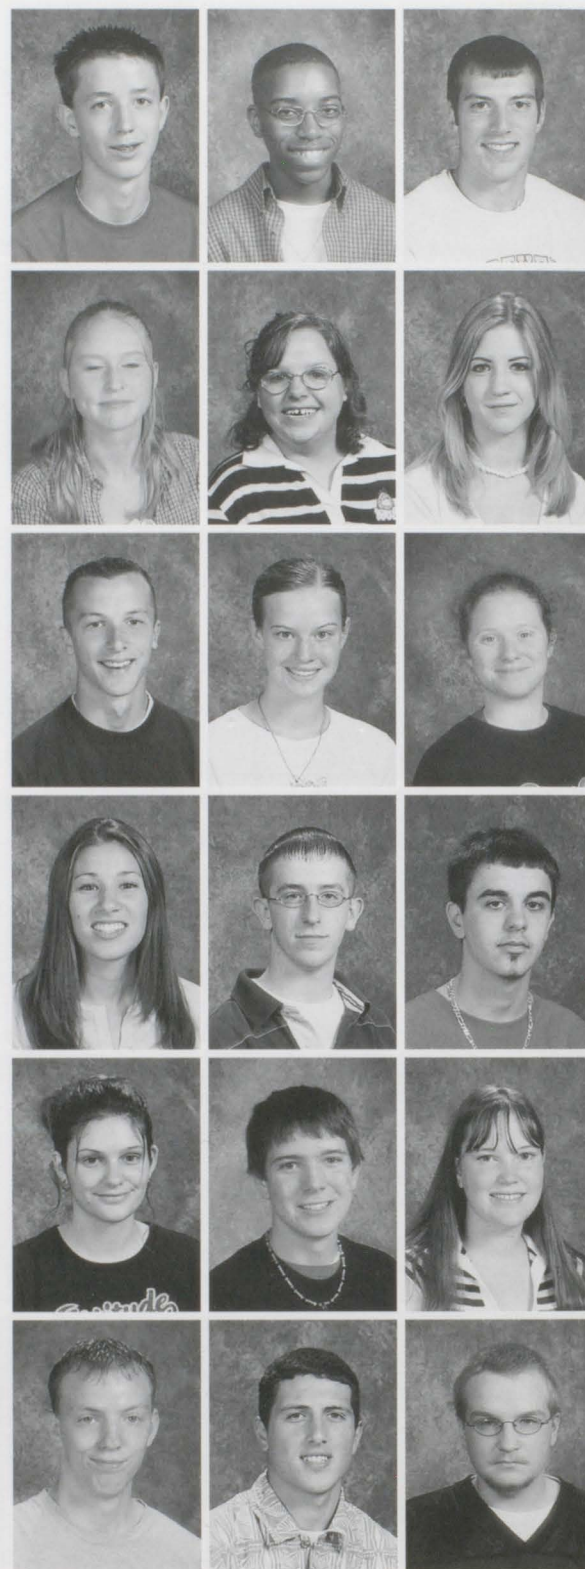

In closing, skaters just want to be what they are, so lets let them be!

A Day in the Life of: Antwan Hall

What comes to mind when you think of Antwan Hall? If you said "Books on Tape" then you have the wrong Antwan. He is a true sports maniac and according to him everyone knows it. From basketball to baseball to golf he covers them all. His biggest passion seems to be hockey. As an Ice Dawg for 2 years and has played hockey all his life, Antwan's parents encouraged him and his older brother to play sports, but he says with an "are you kidding" look, "my parents are not athletic at all. My dad works on the Blue Water Bridge, managing toll booths."

It would only make sense then for Antwan's other hobbies to include sports. This outgoing junior enjoys watching the movie "Hardball" and sports games on T.V and hanging out with friends. Good grades are something else Antwan makes sure he gets. His parents made sure of that. His advise to the underclassman "Study" shrugs Antwan. The high marks are a plus when you plan to attend the University Of Michigan, become a pediatrician and move to Farmington Hills, like Antwan.

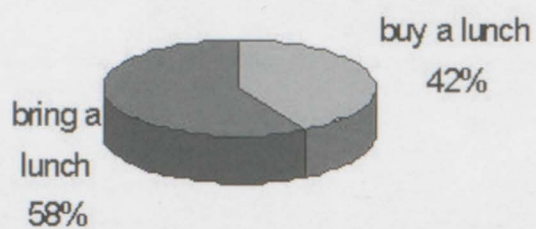

There's one important thing that hasn't been mentioned yet. Ladies are you listening? Mrs. Wojtas describes him like this. "Antwan is a personable young man and very flirtatious. Everytime I see him I say, Oh Antwan and girls again"

-Sarah Wells

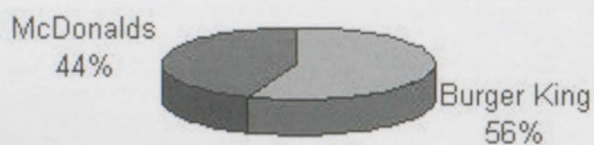

Wasting time in the hall, Antwan Hall ('04) tries to find something to do to get out of going to class. Antwan is a star hockey and golf player.

A Day in the Life of: Michael Garske

"Set me free, let me be who and what I am..." a line from "Before I Die" by Mushroomhead, one of Michael Garske's favorite bands. This snippet of a song shows the true spirit of Michael, he is what he wants to be and does what he wants to do.

Next to listening to heavy metal, Michael also enjoys chatting with other AOL users, drafting, and wrestling for Northern's Varsity team of course. Brian Robertson ('05) had to add about his teammate, "I've only wrestled him a few times, and he won most of the time. He's definitely an aggressive wrestler!"

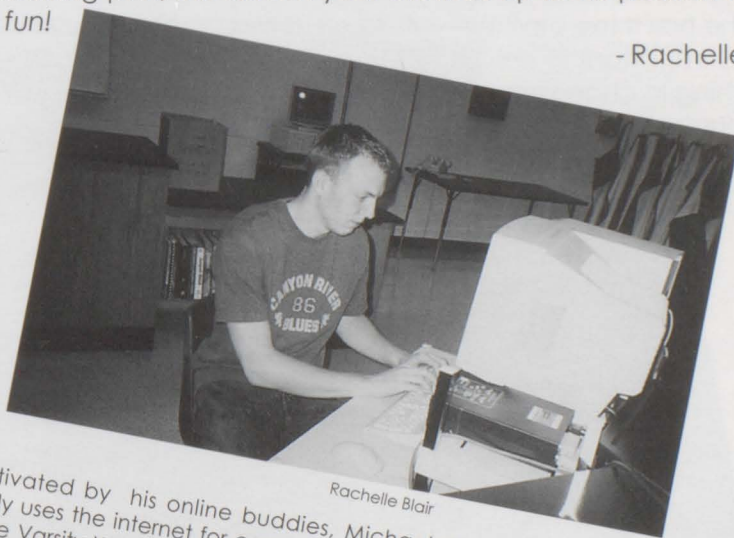

This young man describes himself as "unpredictable, smart, and unnoticed." and those are just the words to explain him. When asked how he would change the school he simply replied, "I'd make it so that all freshmen had to stay upstairs." In addition to that, this Junior has only one piece of advice for those younger Huskies, "Stay out of my way!"

"Even though I've only talked to him a couple times, I find him as a very intriguing person," commented Stephanie Lynch ('03), "He has a mysterious mystic going on." "I think he has potential, but he needs to shrink," remarked Mike Smith ('05) on Michael's height.

Michael's plans for the future reflect those of every red-blooded teenager. "I want to become rich and retire from engineering by the age of 35," he pondered with a furtive smile on his face.

Armed with his "sanity keeping" CD player, CD's, computer and drafting pen, this sixteen year old lives up to his passion to just have fun!

Captivated by his online buddies, Michael Garske ('04) mainly uses the internet for communication. Garske is a star on the Varsity Wrestling team also.

A day In the Life of: Eva Meyer-Schwickerath

The name says it all... wonderful, talented, original, and extraordinary. Eva is an intelligent seventeen year old attending Port Huron Northern High School. Eva is more or less your average Husky, bright blue eyes and short blonde hair, except for one thing... she was born and raised in Cologne, Germany and has come to Port Huron in an exchange student program.

Eva says her favorite thing to do in America is going to Cedar Point. "There is nothing like Cedar Point in Germany, I had so much fun!" was Eva's first response. In addition, Eva thinks church here in Port Huron is very satisfying. Eva jumped to the conclusion that the churches in Germany are very different from the ones in America. "This church is very enjoyable and entertaining; the ones in Germany are a great deal stricter and older looking."

For schooling Eva has yet to master the wonderful dialogue of English, she proclaimed "the classes aren't that hard, it's the English I have the trouble with!" She has been speaking English for four years now, and French for two. Eva is very happy she was given the opportunity to visit another country. Although she clearly stated she would never want to live in America, nevertheless she would be more then ecstatic to come back and visit.

Eva is staying with Leah Lavigne, a junior attending Port Huron Northern, who plays with her on the JV tennis team, however, Eva only plays tennis in America because her school she attends in Germany does not have any school sports.

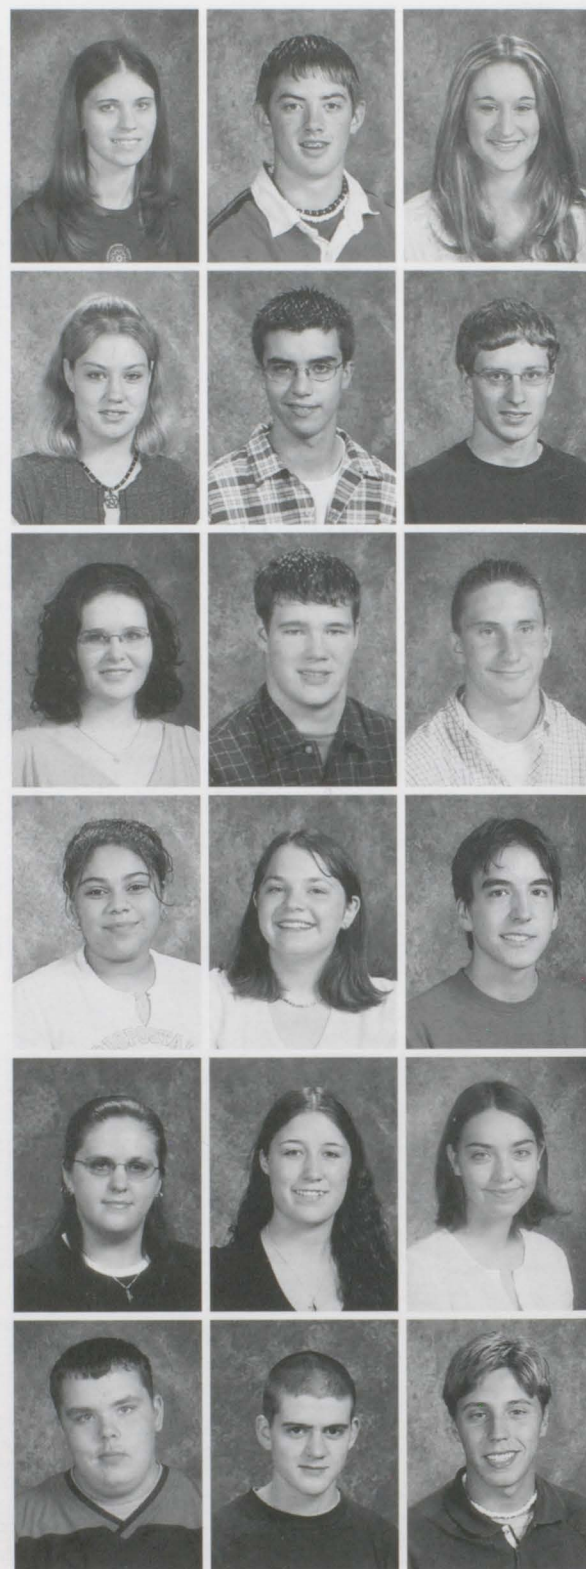

Eva loves her family and friends. Within her family in Germany she has three brothers, two sisters, a mom and a dad. Her family is very important to her and she believes "The most important thing in changing schools and living in a completely different country is staying close with your real family and not forgetting where you come from."

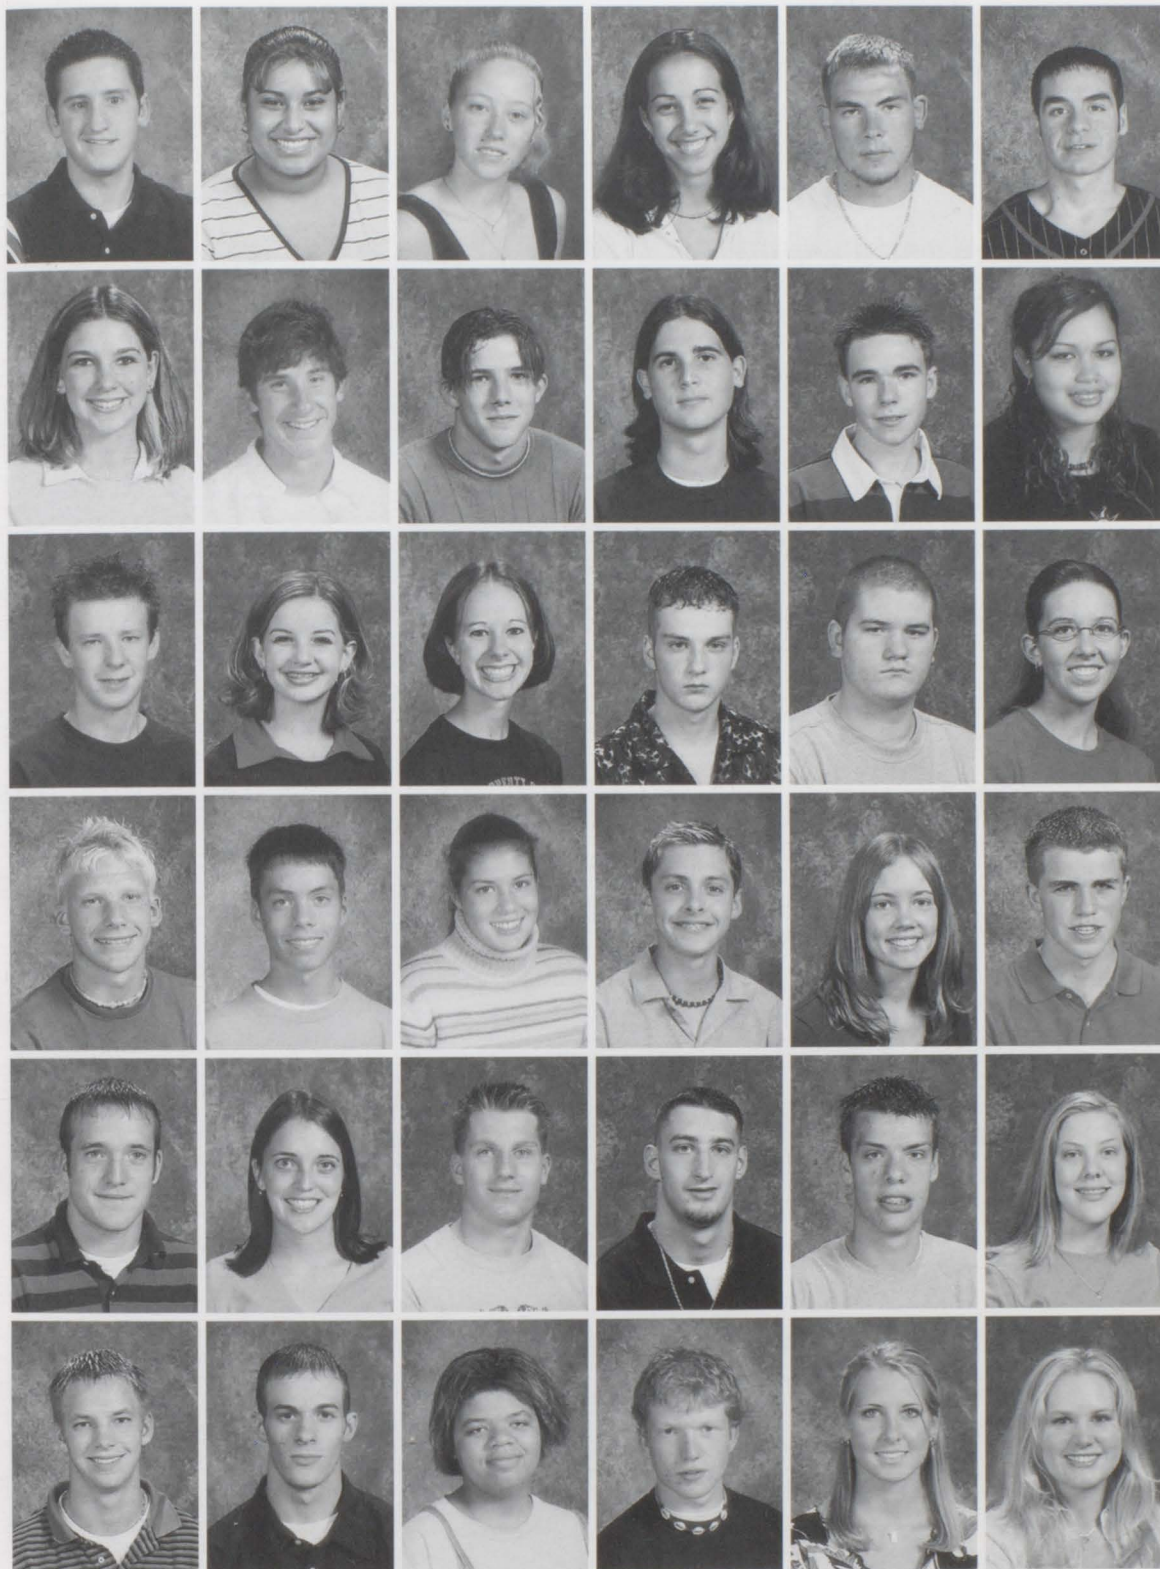

-Kate Gossman

Posing for a picture with her tennis racket in hand, Eva Meyer-Schwickerath ('04) is visiting us from Germany. She only plays tennis in America because her school in Germany does not have a tennis team.

Twins

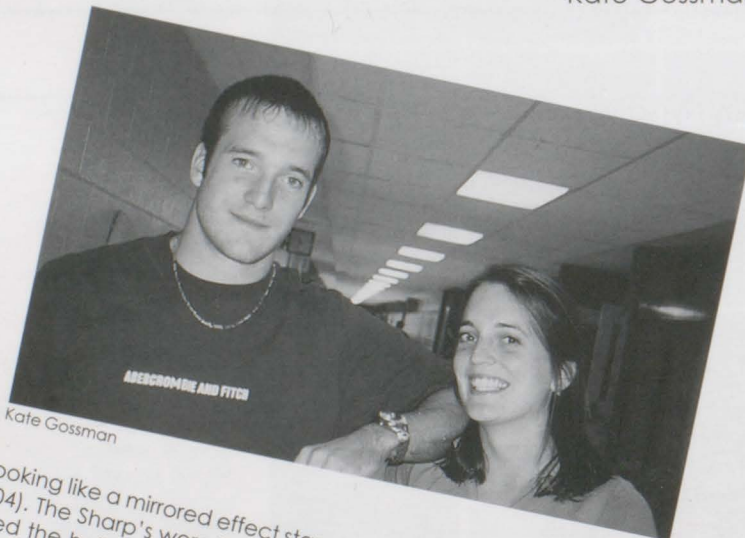

Having a twin is like looking at yourself in a mirror. Although twins might look a lot alike, they all have very different personalities. Being a twin has its ups and downs; confusing people, changing places, and always having a friend are the best parts of having a twin. "The best part of having a twin is always having someone to hang out with," said Katherine Sand ('03) with a smile on her face, looking at her twin sister, Elizabeth ('03).

Even with all the positive things being a twin isn't always great. Sharing a room, always getting mixed up, and sharing a birthday are some of the things that make twins mad. "We have one older brother, he doesn't have to share a room; it isn't fair." That is one of the things Jason and Wyen Hynes ('06) agree on.

There are many twins that inhabited the halls and the classrooms. A few from the class of ('03) were Kyle and Luke LeRoy and Kevin and Steve Pierce. They shared the halls with Amanda and Adam Sharp ('04), Aimee and Alyssa Higgins ('04), Ryan and Josh Bowers ('06), and Kary and Krystal Jolly ('06). Although this seemed like a lot, there were many more throughout the other grades.

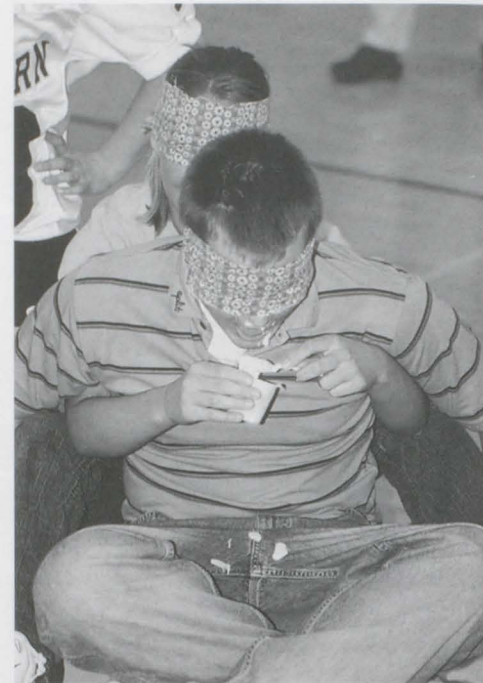

Twins left a lasting impression on many students. Whether it was the confusion at seeing two people that looked similar, or just the unique fact that the school was filled with so many sets of twins, students remembered them!

-Kate Gossman

Kate Gossman

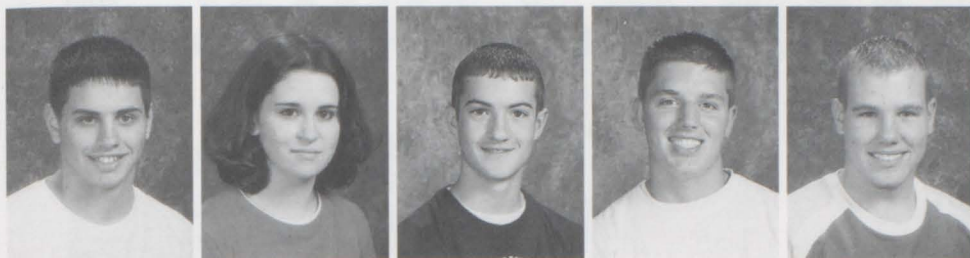

Looking like a mirrored effect stands Adam and Mandy Sharp ('04). The Sharp's were just one of the many sets of twins that filled the halls of Northern.

Yummy yummy yummy! With a spoonful of pudding Beth Ann Solliday ('04) feeds Mike McNash ('04) at the pep assembly. The pudding contest was a way to win free tickets to the game.

Ashley Hinton ('04) jumps for the win against other classes at the pep assembly. The juniors took first place in this event.

Puppy Love

Many adults feel that high school relationships are meaningless, but eight Husky students could tell you otherwise. Amanda Taylor ('03), Matt Munce ('03), Maurica Wells ('04), William Cox ('04), Ryan Schmit ('05), Katy Hickey ('05), Rachel Allen ('06), and Brian Pfeiffer ('06) each have something in common, a lasting relationship.

Maurica Wells said "We were dorks at first," but now she realizes how much the relationship with her boyfriend, Bill Cox has grown. Hard work and dedication has gone into making each of their relationships strong! Katy Hickey said "The best quality of my boyfriend, Ryan, is that he always listens to what I have to say and helps me with my problems. I trust him." Communication was the glue that held these couples together. Occasionally, something sweet had to be done to knock the other person off their feet. "The sweetest thing that my girlfriend, Amanda, did for me was that on Valentines Day she put a gift and a note for me in each class I had," stated Matt Munce. Rachel Allen said, "Brian writes me songs and poems. He always knows how to make me smile!"

-Ashley Nye and Julie Coles

Holding each other close, Amanda Taylor ('03) and Matt Munce ('03) take time out for a picture. Taylor and Munce have been dating since before high school.

A Day in the Life of: Dieter Schulz

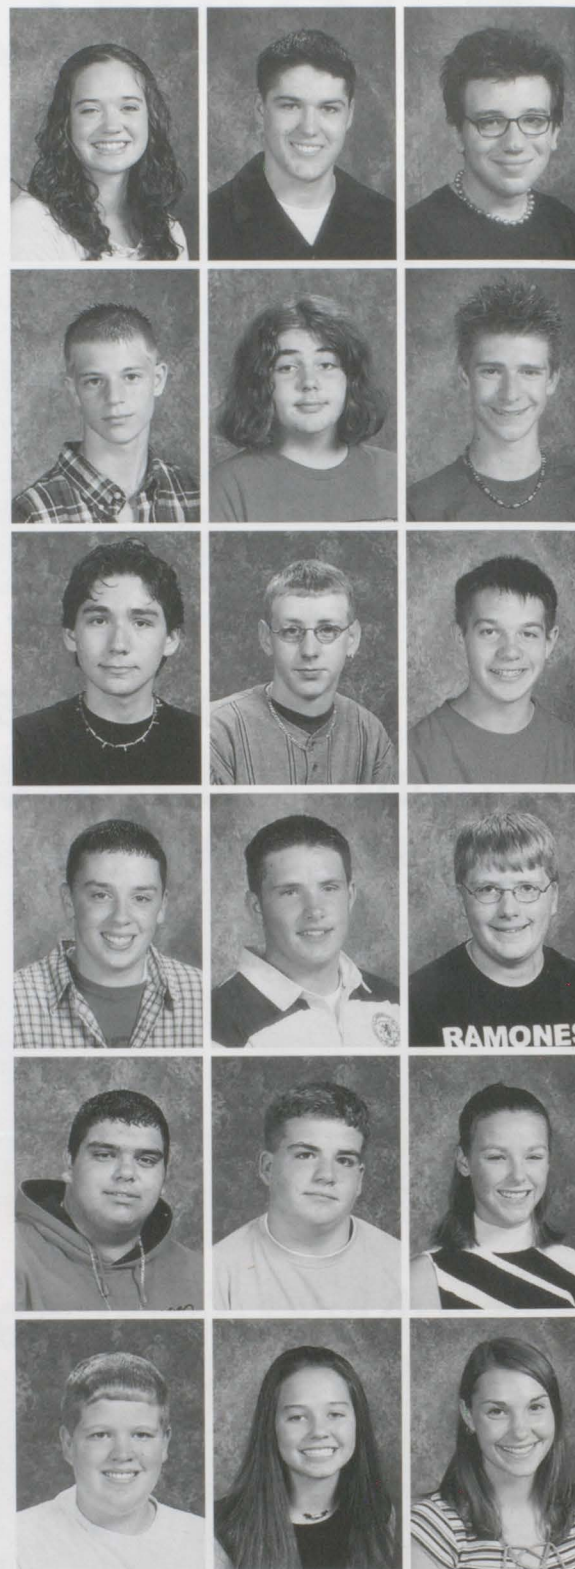

What's your favorite class to take a nap in? Dieter Schulz ('05), who needs at least 12 hours of sleep a day, admits, "5th hour Lit is my best snoozing spot." But don't tell on him for that, he just hates tattle tales. If you don't find him snoozing in Lit, you will probably find him hanging with friends and watching the Disney channel while eating a lot of pizza. Dieter smiled and said jokingly, "I could eat pizza until I pop!" Dieter and his buds enjoy playing hockey on the Little Caesar's team. He has been playing hockey for more then 13 years.

After his long day of hanging with friends and playing hockey, Dieter gets home to relax in front of the tube with a piece of pizza to watch "Tommy Boy".

- Tiffany Norton

Guys vs. Gals

How often have you wondered what the opposite sex thought about you? According to the survey taken, it is not too far from what you think. From friends to "friends", both genders view each other much the same way. Scott Gossman ('05) said, "I think its fine to date people of the other race and treat people of the other sex the same way you do for the same sex."

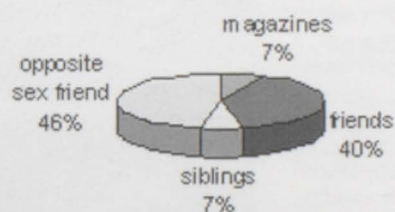

Along with what quality they thought the opposite sex looked for first, the survey depicts what quality they actually do look for. "Physical attraction is the first thing that I notice, but down the line you stay for the personality," said Nick Currie ('03) when answering.

For the most part the results are similar, yet different when dealing with jealousy and where they seek advice. "It's cool to get their point of view," Mike Sand ('05) said about asking girls for advice.

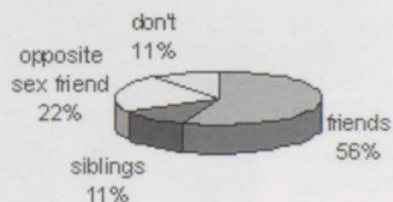

All in all girls and guys can relate to each other more than you think they can.

Qualities Girls Look For In Guys

Quality Guys Look For In Girls

Do You Do Your Homework, Copy It, Or Don't Do It At All?

Why is it Better to be a Sophomore than a Freshman?

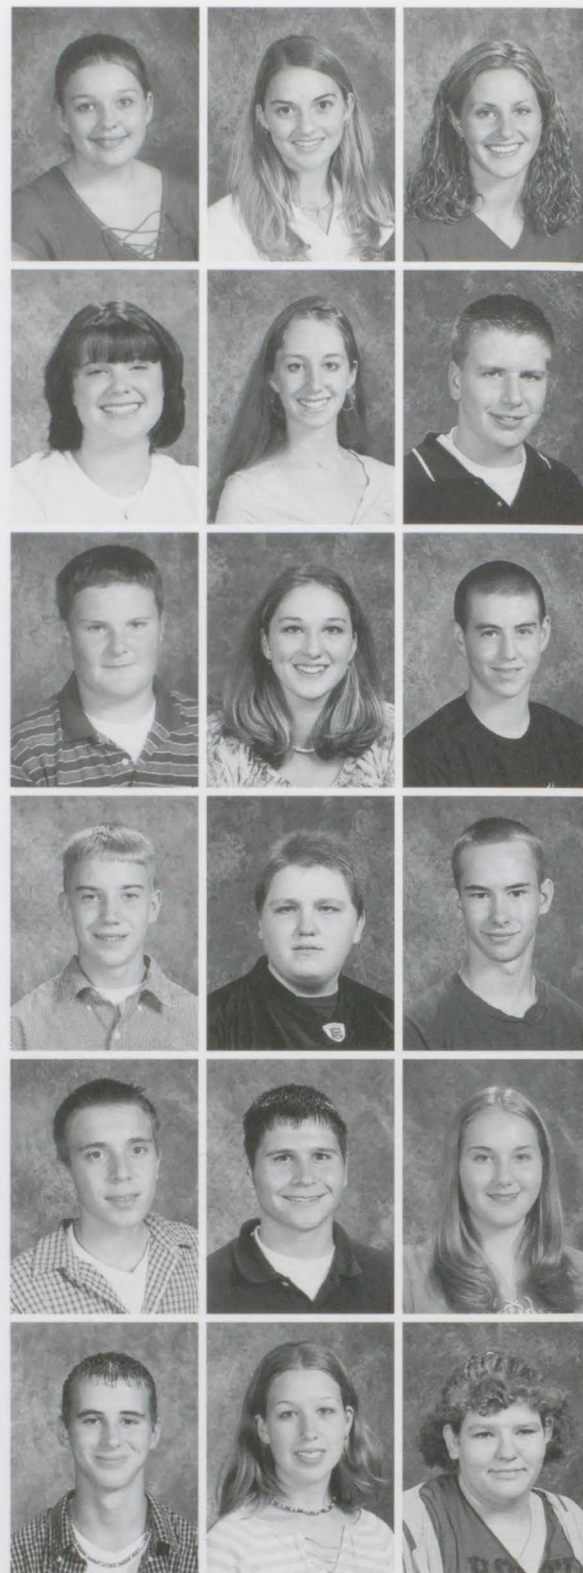

Do you want to buy a hall pass... or how about a pool pass? Yeah right. All sophomores know you cannot buy a hall pass and that we don't even have a pool to begin with. Sophomores already know all the cons and tricks. You learned them while you were a freshman. By the time you are a sophomore you have more freedom to choose your classes, you have more opportunities on sports teams, and you have more options when joining clubs. "As a sophomore you are not the younger class and you have more power then the freshmen. You also are more ready for school because you have already been at the school," said Keith "Joey" Skinner ('05). You learn what teachers are the funny ones, which ones are "more bubbly than your bath", which ones are friendly enough to confide in, and even which ones will only let you leave the classroom if you are dying. Freshmen do not come to high school knowing that important information. "It's better to be a sophomore than a freshman because you are used to the school and you know where all of your classes are. You also know more people because you got to know them during freshman year," stated Ann Grant ('05). Sophomores don't always have to have that "I'm nice...be my friend aura" because you got to make new friends and meet new people during your freshman year. Freshmen have to become busy making new friends when sophomores don't. So, as a sophomore, you are more likely to have a better year all around because you have become acclimated to the adventures and lifestyles of high school.

What is Your Ideal Spring Break?

"I can't wait until Spring Break!" This is the famous line students are always saying. But what exactly do students do during Spring Break? What is their ideal Spring Break?

Most of the time students like to go away during Spring Break, but some like to stay home. Some ideal places to go during Spring Break are Florida, the Bahamas, Cancun, and anywhere else warm. Spring Break is a time to relax and not worry about anything else.

Some students gave their opinions about their ideal Spring Breaks. I want to go somewhere warm, but what I really do is sit at home," said Sarah Wells ('05). "I like to go to Myrtle Beach with my Youth Group during Spring Break," said Chelsea Winn ('05). Whatever students end up doing during Spring Break, the time always seems to go by way too fast!

- Ann Grant

Marissa Hayes and Lindsay Currier, both ('04), sit at their Spring Break destination in Florida. Other popular Spring Break hot spots were Cancun, Mexico and Myrtle Beach, South Carolina.

A Day in the Life of: Mesha Davis

What do tacos, softball, and Mandy Moore have in common? Mesha Davis ('05) of course! Mesha has many other favorite things as well such as the movie "Bloodsport", the song "Skater Boy" by Avril Lavigne, the class vocal theory, the colors orange and green, and the book A Child Called It.

Mesha loves both of her parents, too. Her mother works for Chrysler and her father works for Domtar. She has pet fish and seven protective brothers and sisters, four of which are half siblings and 3 that are step siblings. Her siblings run from ages 4-28. If she had a million dollars she would help her family and give them money. She would also create a softball complex on 16th Street.

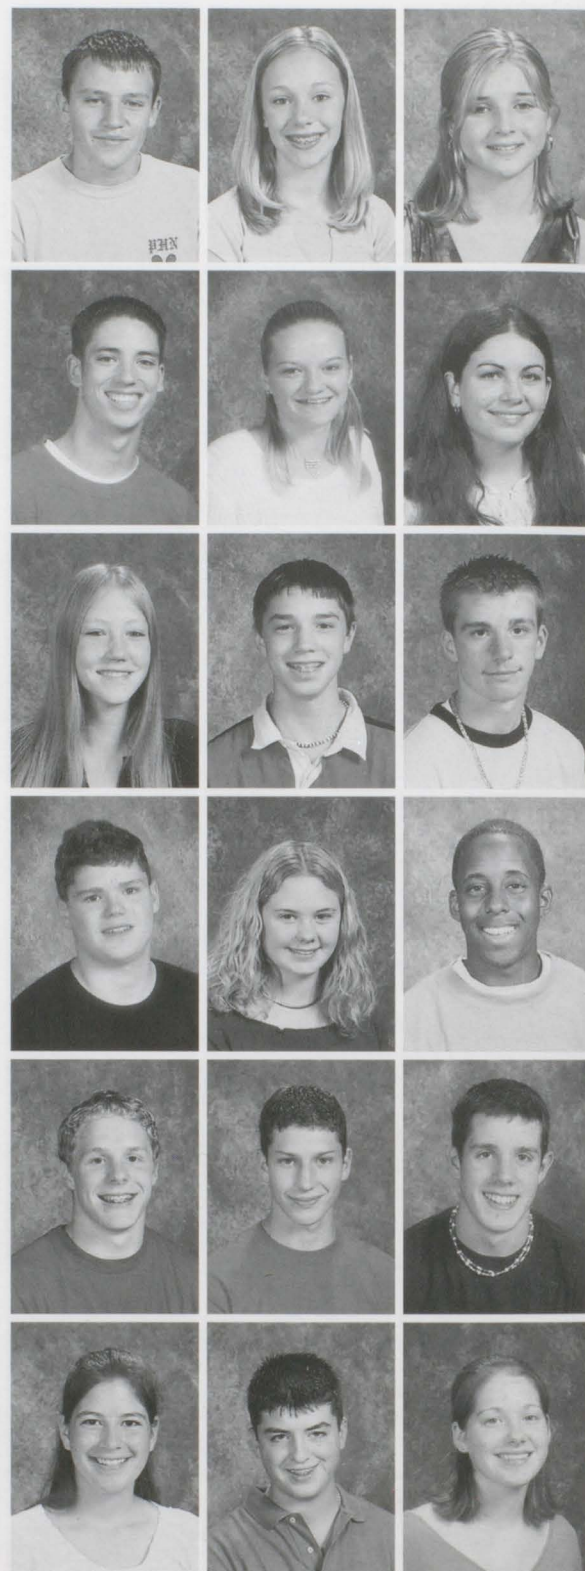

When she grows up she would like to live in Hull, Texas, even though she's never been there. "It is a great, warm place!" Mesha exclaimed. She hopes her children are better than she was. She wants them to have things better than she had also.

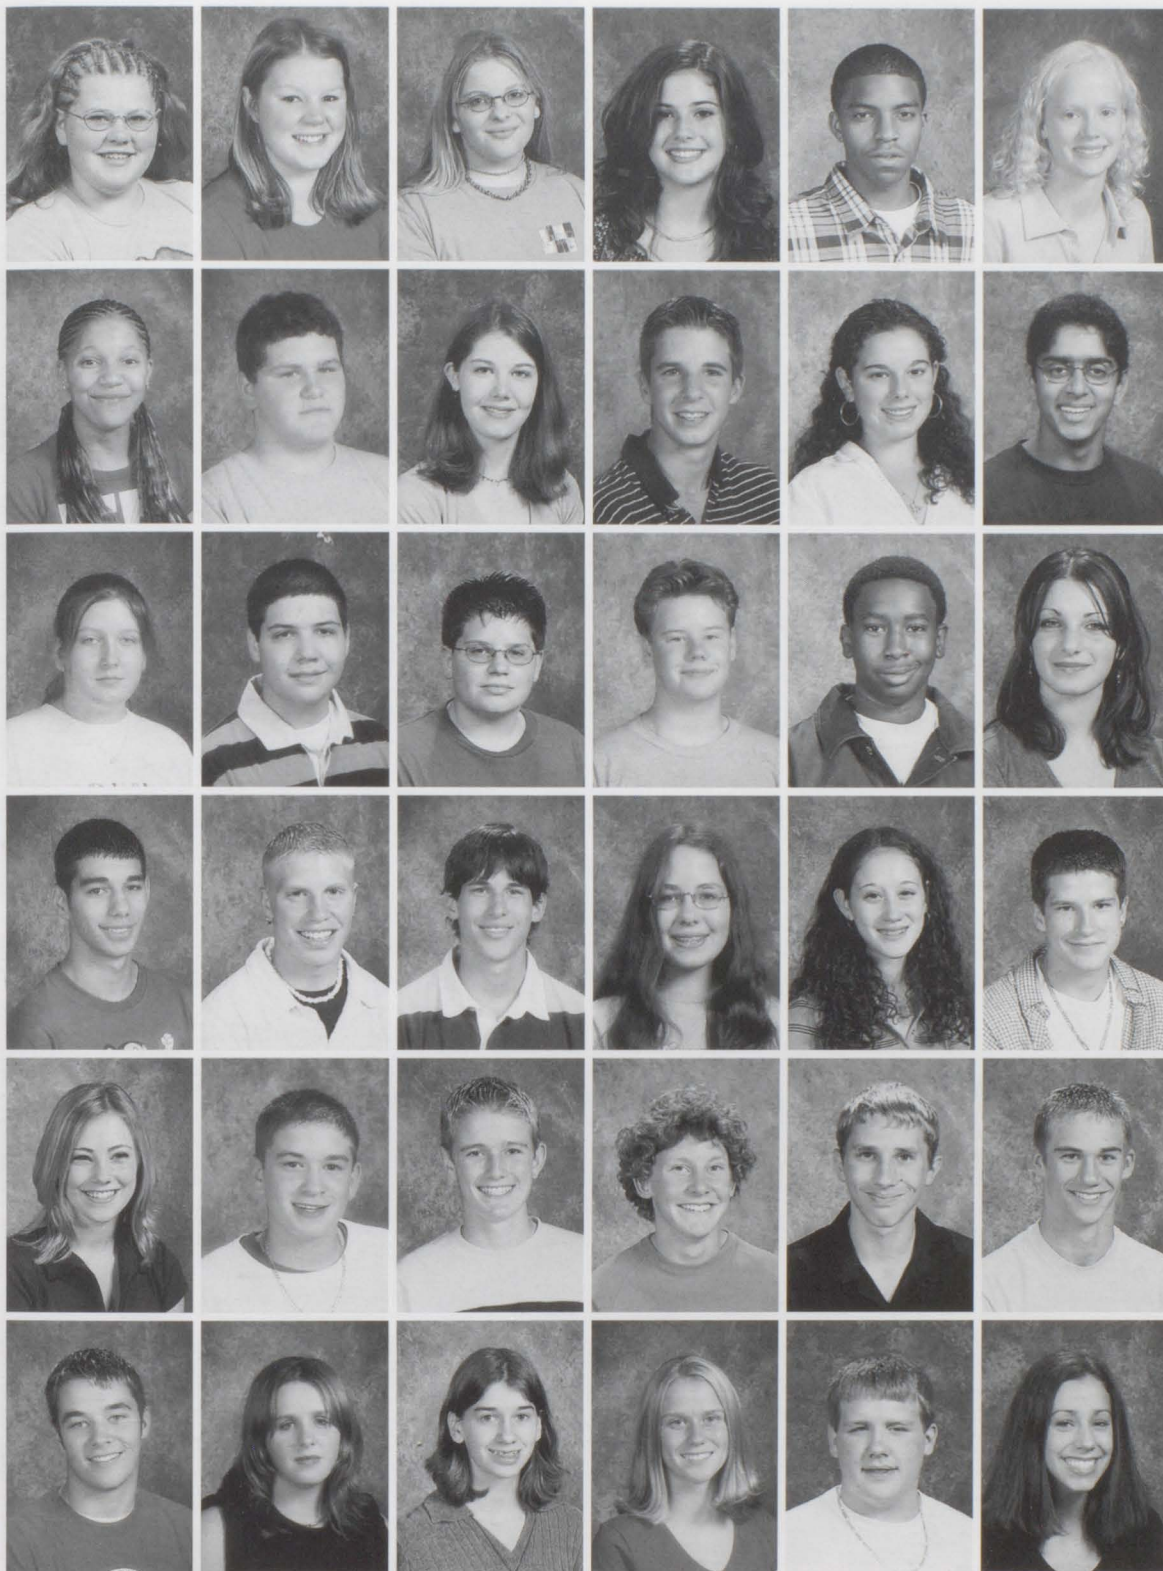

In Husky town, Mesha likes her classes and the students that go there. She would love to make a field hockey and lacrosse team. Her primary goal this school year is to prove her parents wrong and do excellent in her classes. Her advice to students is to have a good time in high school because when you get out it's a lot harder.

-Ann Grant

Performing at her best in choir stands Mesha Davis ('05). Mesha's goal for the year is to do excellent in her classes.

Do you want to know who the nicest person at Northern is? This person will help anyone with any problem they may have. Need a clue? Well, he is a "PK". You know, a "preacher's kid". And he wears that name proudly. Give up? Non other than Steve Trask.

Steve loves the movie Gladiator, he loves Tom Petty's music, he prefers Cheese It's over those flavorful Cheese Nips, and he would rather be in the game than watching the game. And like most guys ... he prefers vanilla over chocolate... I think is has something to do with their physiological balance.

Steve is a very genuine person, "I admire my older brother because he has made some really good choices in his life, and I want to pursue the career that he has." Steve's goal is to get good grades in high school so he can graduate with flying colors, and attend the University of Nebraska, where he will play college level football and start planning out his career. Football isn't the only sport Steve plays; he also plays soccer, track, and runs for indoor track. He loves his soccer team so much that he would even dye his hair blue for one of their triumphet tournaments.

Steve has some pretty extreme things he would ask for from the infamous genie that people always wish would pop in. He would ask to be guaranteed a star spot on University of Nebraska's Football team, to be the fastest runner ever and of course to find that "perfect girl". Steve's idea of a "perfect girl" is "someone who is caring, doesn't fight just to fight, and has a 'great face'." Any girls fit the profile? If so, you better catch him fast. He's never been anywhere tropical so maybe you could win his heart by offering him some tickets to Jamaica.

Steve loves his father and his mom and his two brothers and his two sisters with all of his heart. When he is older he hopes to have a great family of his own. He would be the perfect husband with his charming personality. "I am a really honest person so it is easy for me to be friends with a lot of different people. I'm modest too, so it may take a little time for me to get to know you. But, once you do, you can always confide in me. Modest is good though...for the ladies, you know!?" Church. Important. Every Sunday. Steve has to be a good kid because his dad is extremely close to God. But, "I am already a good kid, so it is easy."

Steve likes high school better than middle school because most of the teachers "know what they are doing", they are nicer, and they are more willing to help you when needed; than when in middle school. This left-handed guy would be a "sweet" quad if he had a million dollars. And he is never too far away from his closest friends.

If you don't know Steve Trask, you need to drop whatever you are doing, find the nearest phone, and call him at 1-800-I-am-cute. One more thing "be who you are, be yourself, and don't try to be someone else. Be you."

-Tamara Lavatti

Posing for the camera stands Steve Trask ('06). He enjoys playing many sports and loves playing with his potato gun weekends.

Good teachers are of a scarce breed, hard to come by more and more every year. "A good teacher is like a good parent. They make learning fun, but keep discipline at the same time," compares Adam Wilkinson ('04).

And fun is a key in keeping students' attention. Learning by doing and visual activities are some of the best ways to maintain the fun factor in classes. Megan Smith's ('03) favorite way of learning is "When teachers actually make the material interesting. Just reading can get pretty boring." Rachel Mazur ('03) agrees, "I like it when teachers use comedy to approach us, and it's always fun doing hands-on activities."

Some students prefer knowledge over entertainment, though they still don't mind the occasional joke. "I enjoy teachers that was interested in what they teach and actually know more than what the book says," Amanda Kreh ('03) proclaims. Ken Laming ('03) concurs, "I like TEC teachers better than regular teachers because they get to know students better, and they teach stuff I actually want to know."

The myth of "bad teachers" will soon be overcome as long as students appreciate their more creative qualities.

-Stephanie Lynch and Rachelle Blair

PHN Fight Song

Fight on for NORTHERN HIGH SCHOOL.
 Raise high the Gold and Blue.
 We're proud to stand for our school with colors waving.
 PORT HURON shall come through.
 FIGHT!
 Fight on until the victory.
 "Onward" shall be our cry.
 We're here to cheer our NORTHERN HUSKIES.
 Fight on for NORTHERN HIGH.

Raise high your shield of honor,
 Fight against the foe.
 FIGHT!
 NORTHERN will really up and "GO YOU HUSKIES."

Shout out our song of victory.
 Our school will do or die.
 We're going to Cheer, Cheer, Cheer our HUSKIES.
 Fight on for NORTHERN HIGH!

Trying his best to go the distance, Jesserae Guana('04) leaps toward a potential personal record. Jesse was a long jumper and sprinter.

Hoping for a explosive start, Travell Brown ('04) gets into position to run the 4 X 400 meter relay. Travell gave the relay a great start off and the relay team ended with a win.

Foot Loose

"On your mark,... set,... BANG!" The runners are off down the track to victory. Students chose track and field as their spring sport for many reasons.

"I decided to run track to stay in shape, meet new people, and have a new experience", said Fernando Rodriguez ('05). Runners endured many aches and pains during the season but many people stuck it out anyway.

Natalie Marchand ('03) said, "What hurts you makes you stronger."

Throughout the season, athletes set goals and personal records. Some even occasionally set a school record.

"I strive to improve my times and make myself better throughout the season. That's my number one priority," said Brooke Meddaugh ('03). So as the season came to the end, the seniors handed off the baton to the incoming track and field athletes.

Striving to win the race, Christine Cuppin ('05) runs with all her might. As a member of the Junior Varsity track team, her speed was an important asset.

Carefully watching the finish line, Sarah Wells ('05) and Joy Doerzbacher ('03) compete for the top spot. Sarah finished ahead but, Joy was not far behind.

With hair flying, Andrea McDonald ('03) sweeps over a hurdle with Brooke Meddaugh ('03) chasing after her. Andrea was a participant in the hurdles, and the 1600 meter relay team.

With a mighty force, Brady Misziak ('04) heaves his discus hoping to set his personal record. Brady put in his points for the shot put and discus events.

Last year, Varsity Softball had an awesome season. The seniors were a big help. They really helped the team go far. Karen Lewis ('04) says, "The highlight of my softball season was just being able to be part of such a great team. It was the most enjoyable sports season of my life." There are also many advantages to being on Varsity. Ashley Pickering ('03) states "I love getting to know everyone and being able to have fun while we won our games." There were also many good memories the softball team will never forget. Lindsey O'Dell ('03) explains, "The highlight of the season that was most memorable, was becoming MAC Red champs. It was a huge accomplishment and we had a lot of fun doing it!" Last year's season was just an all around success.

Slick Sliders

Even though last year was Coach Davey's last season of coaching the JV Softball team, his impact will always live on. "Mr. Davey was a really good coach, and he made sure to be fair to everyone." Heather Belling ('04), commented nostalgically. Regardless of numerous injuries, the team managed to pull off a 12-6 season. Cathleen "Baby" Cates ('04), one of the injured, offered this advice for future players, "Pay attention and don't screw up!" It's obvious that this softball team will always be united despite any possible separation of ways.

The Freshmen Softball team started off well last season. "One of the most memorable games was probably when we played Eastland, because it was so close and we tied. Then we ended up winning because of something in the rule book. It was so hot! Our team kicks butt!" commented Jillian Supan ('05). All the girls have lasting memories and had a blast creating them.

Hard Hitters

It's going, going....gone! The Varsity Baseball team kicked off their season with a trip to Ohio over Spring Break. "All the guys kind of bonded over the course of the season and I thought it was good for us," said Kevin Dedoe ('03). The team experienced quite a blow, losing two seniors to injuries. Nate Korff ('02) had surgery along with teammate Chad Winkler ('02). The team looked at this as motivation to succeed.

STRRIIIIIKKKEE! This is what most players hate to hear as the ball zips past them. "As I step up to the plate I think about the basics. Just hit the ball and hope to get on base," says Tommy Budzik ('04). Jon Reynolds ('04) says, "The biggest part about being on JV baseball is competition. You're now reaching a level of baseball when you run into some pretty good baseball players." Our JV team performed a well fought season, thanks to quality coaching, practices, team work, and the support of the fans.

Starting your year out as a freshmen on the baseball team is a good way to meet your fellow teammates and prepare yourself to progress for the years to come. You can play for the love of the game. "One highlight of the season was when Scott Dedoe ('05) hit a home run over the left field fence, it was the only one of the season," said Wesley Nordin ('05). "Freshmen had some tough games this year," Matthew Borntrager ('05) stated, "I would say that the toughest team we had to play was Anchor Bay at home. We played a great game and won 3-0, it was a good game!" Jordan McKelvey ('05) says "My favorite game was when we beat Grosse Pointe North, who think they have everything, we shut them up and sent them home a little less cocky." Although they aren't on Junior Varsity or Varsity they still have the experience of having fun starting off your high school years.

Head Spinning

When tryouts start you're left with the frustration of finding out whether all your hard work has paid off to make J.V. or Varsity. Soccer can be stressful and fun. One player Ashley Cummings ('04) states, "Some advantages are that I am able to play with the best soccer players at Northern and we have a very close team." Another player Sarah Mullins ('03) said, "An advantage is I can have fun and play with my friends doing something I love. I love playing the game on this team with a great group of girls. I love my 'soccer sisters'."

"Being on J.V. helps prepare us for the Varsity team. You also can become great friends with the girls on the team. I think if we all keep working as hard as we do at practice, then we all will greatly improve our skills and be able to win." said Katie Harrington ('05). It takes a lot to be on the J.V team, so the girls need to be ready and achieve the skills to make Varsity next year.

True or false? "Tee" for a truly successful season. The girls golf team was undefeated in the Mac Red and took third place at states. Laura Baer ('04) said, "I decided to be in golf because I have been playing since I was eight and I thought it would be a fun experience." The girls experience definitely helped them along to get second place at Regionals and the Grosse Pointe Tournament. There were many obstacles to overcome. Ashley Hinton ('04) said, "My mental toughness was a big factor." Kelley Wilkinson ('03) added, "Being on the golf team makes it more challenging to get good academic grades, but it is still worth it because of my love for the game". Being successful was not the only thing that made this team strong. Working together as a team and even becoming friends can be a great experience. Marissa Hayes ('04) commented, "My favorite part of golf is being with my freinds and having fun."

David Thomas ('03) also stated, "Being on Varsity Tennis, you get a lot more attention and become better friends with one another." All the players got along great and enjoyed all their matches.

"I'm very pleased with the JV Tennis team. It has many excellent athletes. This team has great potential for the future." said Darin O'Dell ('05). The JV Tennis team had great unity for such a young team. "I think the best thing about the tennis season so far is how much fun we have. No matter if we win or lose we still have fun," commented Curtis Neal ('05). His teammate Rahul Reddy ('05) added, "It is fun because there is less pressure to win the games then there is on varsity." The JV team had many matches this year and were very successful and they learned a lot along the way.

Love It

What sport has been the most successful in PHN's history? Do you think it's hockey, football, or how about baseball? None of the above. It's the girls Varsity tennis team! They practice everyday after school and get up at 6 AM every Saturday to go to tournaments. You know the saying "practice makes perfect?" Well, this saying is so true for the girls varsity team.

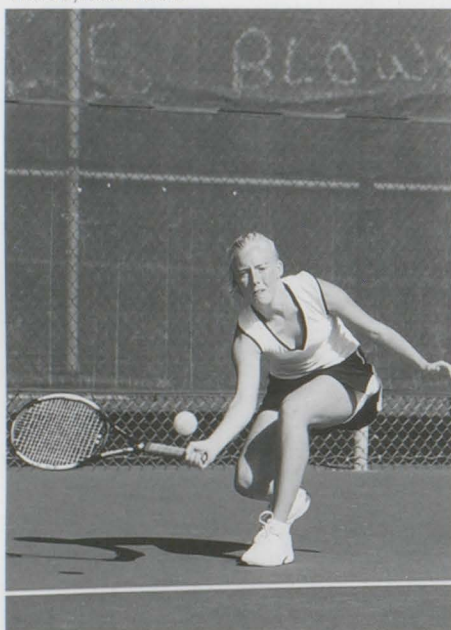

The girls Varsity tennis team won the Division 1 state championship. All of the girls on the team contributed to win the state crown. "Every moment I spent with such a great team and coaching has helped shape who I am and I'll remember those experiences forever," commented Emily Walker. "My most memorable tennis moment was the whole experience at states. Being my senior year and my first time at states was the greatest time I have ever had. Playing with all the teams and bonding with my own team was great," commented Nicole Kamidoi ('03).

The girls JV tennis team had a great season as well. "The most memorable tennis moment was our first trip to Petosky. We drove all the way there and stayed the night. It ended up getting canceled due to rain. Even though we were rained out and we didn't get to show our stuff on the court, we still had a great time. All of us became close friends. I think every tournament was a wonderful memory because we tried our hardest and did great!" said Karleen Hall ('05).

All the girls agree that they couldn't have had as much success as they had without their outstanding coaches! Mary Kay Baribeau and Linda Smith coached the varsity team, and Mr. Farnsworth and Mr. Sharpe coached the Junior Varsity team. They put a lot of effort and time into the girls, and they helped the girls out tremendously! They couldn't ask for any better coaches because they're the best!

The varsity Huskies struggled, but had a winning season with a record of 5-4. Daniel Palm ('04), said with enthusiasm, "The team struggled, but we stuck together and had a good effort to win the season." It wasn't how many games they won, but the unity of the team is what mattered. "It was a good season, and successful even though we didn't make the playoffs!" replied Tim Sargent ('03).

With a rough season this year the JV Huskies lost the season with a record of 4-5. Cody Spencer ('05) said proudly, "Football is the greatest game in the world. JV didn't live up to our full potential, but all in all we did well." The football players will be practicing intensely over the summer in preparation for the up coming season. With a little bit of hard work and dedication, they will have what it takes to compete at the varsity level. "Games were a bunch of fun because our team was such a unit," replied Timothy Kane ('05).

The freshmen Huskies have a lot of work practicing and training for the upcoming JV season. They were disappointed with their season with a record of 2-7, but they all felt it was a learning experience. Nickolas Zgieb ('06) sadly said, "With hardwork and dedication the team is sure to see a winning season next year." Alexander Ernst ('06) proudly announced, "Next year will be better."

Chanting Cheers

The sport that goes unrecognized for being one...any other sports game would be incomplete without it...it is the team that gets the crowd up and out of their seats at the pep assemblies...they are the JV and varsity cheerleading teams.

The cheerleading team often doesn't get the acknowledgement they deserve for all of the painstaking time and effort that they put into their routines. The girls cheer at the football games and pep assemblies. "The best part about cheerleading is meeting lots of new people and cheering in front of the crowds. The rush is unbelievable. The worst part about cheerleading is the long hours and practice," said Lindsey Lapish ('03). The cheerleading team is a great way for the girls to be with their friends who share the love for cheering, while proving to our school that they have fantastic school spirit. Jessica Pedrys ('06) comments, "My favorite part about cheerleading is actually getting time to see all of my freinds. I like cheering at the pep assemblies better than cheering at the football games because the crowds get into it more." Football games are great, but are even better with some added energy from the cheerleaders. "The best part about cheerleading is when it rains at the football games because we can't stunt and we can just goof around and have fun," commented Kim Grant ('05).

Many of the cheerleaders spend most of their free time practicing their stunts and routines. Katie Jarvis ('04) stated "The best part about cheerleading is making a whole new group of friends that you become so close to. Cheerleading has a big impact on my life."

Without cheerleading, the pep assemblies wouldn't be as entertaining and the football games wouldn't so captivating!

Amanda Kreh ('03) shows her strength at the pep assembly. The varsity cheerleaders worked hard to fire up the football team.

Dancing with excitement to the "show us how you get down" cheer, the girls try and pump up the crowd. The ladies kept the fans involved during the games.

Tumbling through the gym, Lindsey Lapish ('03) is recognized for being a senior. At the pep assembly all seniors on varsity fall sports were recognized.

With a smile on her face, Kelli Janiszewski ('06) stands on the hands of her teammates. Trust is a valuable element to being a member of the team.

Successfully plowing through her enemy, Jenna Muir ('05) takes her best shot at the hoop. Jenna was a member of the JV team this year as a freshmen.

"She shoots! She scores!" The girls basketball games are always a lot of fun and excitement! There is always a lot of fans clapping and cheering. But, this is fine with the girls. They love the encouragement from the crowd and from each other. No matter if they played Varsity, JV, or Freshmen.

The girls Varsity team had a great season and made it all the way to semi-finals for regionals. "I'm glad I got the opportunity to play Varsity. It was a lot of fun this year," commented Kayla Lohr ('05). All the girls agree they couldn't have done without Coach Boeskool. He was always working the girls hard, so they were able to improve!

The girls JV team had a good season as well. Their record was 9-10. "JV basketball has been great. The coach has made the season fun and my teammates were great to play with," commented Katie Harrington ('05). "I had fun this year playing basketball with older girls, being a freshman. I'm glad I had the chance to be a part of Northern's team," reflected Alexandra Desjardin ('06).

The girls freshmen season was a great one! Their season record was 12-7. They really learned a lot. "It was fun playing and watching the JV girls after," commented Stephanie Krause ('06). It was also good experience for all the girls since high school basketball is so different from middle school. "It was different from middle school because everything was so much more intense," said Emily Eppley ('06).

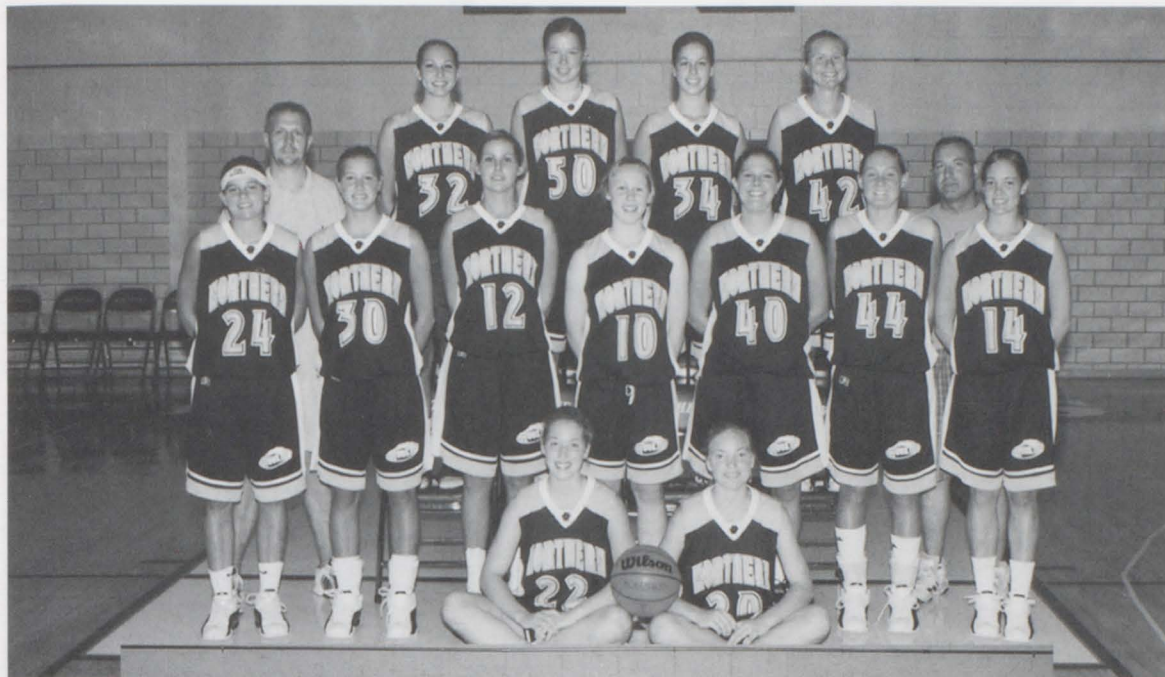

All the basketball teams have three things in common: great players, great coaches, and great teamwork! They worked hard, improved their basketball game, and had great times together!

Giddy Up

Equestrian...the team where your best friend is always by your side! A horse, of course!

The equestrian team competes within the districts. The competitions include Western and English pleasure. Jackie Collin is the equestrian coach. The girls race their horses and have them compete in shows. Caitlin Rashid ('05) stated with a smile, "My favorite part would definitely be the races at the end of the day. We don't have to worry about getting dressed up or putting on makeup. Its a fun way to just hang out with the other teams and compete."

There is a lot of preparing that goes along with racing and showing a horse. The girls have to train, groom, and primp their horses before hand. Then they have a strenuous schedule for practicing with their horses before it all happens. Sara LaBadie ('05) commented, "The best part of equestrian was when the showing part was all over and I could hang out with my friends, along with meeting new people from other teams. Thanks to my pony Carebear, I can be on a team that I love."

The girls usually compete during the summer, but this year they had some meets during the school year that took place September 2nd, 8th and 15th. This year the meets were held at the Armada Fairgrounds in Armada, Michigan. With all of the excitement, minor set backs are also along for the "ride", but are always managable. Marissa Minard ('05) remembers, "One memory from the equestrian team was at one of the meets when there wasn't enough stables for all the horses. Sara had to walk her horse around for hours until we made room!"

Next time you have a few minutes, go to the stables grab a horse, and start practicing. You never know... you might just become good enough to join the equestrian team.

Have you ever watched a golf tournament on TV? Could put you to sleep, right? Have you ever been to a Northern boys golf tournament in person? The "vibe" is amazing and the effort that each athlete produces is the better than getting a "hole in one!"

The boys on the golf team are vigorous individuals and together they become a strong team. Ryan McIntyre ('03) commented, "The best part of being on the golf team is not having anyone to rely on when you play. Yet, in the end you come together as a team to decide who wins. This is really the only sport where you don't know how anyone else is doing until the end." With all of the seriousness that the team has when they have a match, they always seem to find the time to have their share of crazy moments and fun times. Jimmy Fraser ('05) replied, "The funniest thing that happened was when Dieter Schultz hit Mike Hayes in the head with a golf ball! We were glad Mike was okay because it was great!" Ouch!

The boy's golf team is a great team that can prove to everyone that Northern has some of the finest teams around. Devin Smith ('04) commented, "The golf season is something to look forward to every year. The best part of the golf season is listening to Antwan Hall and Dieter Schultz on the bus with their funny antics!" Golf will always be a favorite for the boys and hopefully it will become a favorite for all Northern Huskies!

The next time you are looking for something to do on a lonely day after school, grab a few friends, and head out to the greens to see some of Northern's best!

Run Forrest

"We run because the squirrels chase after us," revealed Juston Groff ('03). In one line this young man summed up the spirit of the men's cross country team. Humor is an important part of any team to stay together. The endless fun times, memories, and inside jokes all make the experience worthwhile. "A lot of the guys had a good sense of humor, and it helped us enjoy our season more," commented David Brown ('04). Dave set the cross country record for a junior with a time of 16 minutes and 13 seconds. How could you not enjoy a 6-0 season? "This years team was the strongest I have ever seen in my four years participating," added Groff.

While the men's team thrived, the women's strived for a win. However, with the season ending at 0-6 these young women spirits were not crushed. The trails they've been though only made them more united. "Even though we struggled throughout the season, we learned a lot from our mistakes," remarked Alyssa Higgins ('04). Ashley Pickering contributed, "Although we had a defeated season we still pulled together as a team." Whether they came out with a win or with a loss, these Huskies will always have a lifetime of first rate memories of their cross country experience.

January, February, March, April, May, June, as a fundraising the varsity team decided to create a calendar. The boys soccer team is full of spirit no matter the outcome of the game. Both teams show great dedication to their sport and loads of fun memories like, "Remember the time Evan Wilkins punched that kid in the face...that was sweet", said Andrew Goode ('03). "Yeah that was awesome, but didn't you get a red card too?" stated Ryan Quinn ('03). No matter how good or how bad the event; the teams have always looked back upon them as their own. The JV boys record was 1-14-2 and the Varsity was 12-6-1 in their 18 games. It was a positive learning experience, but the season didn't go as planned," said Wade Hinds ('06) of the JV team. Even though the JV team didn't have that great of a season, there are lots of great things to look back on. Now how about those July, August, September, November, and December guys?

With aggressive momentum Andrew Grant ('03) pushes his way up the court. The team fought a hard struggle against rival PHHS in double overtime.

Imagine screaming fans and a packed gym. That's what goes on when the boy's basketball teams take the court. Most of the guys have been playing since they were young. Thadeaus Anderson ('03) comments, "I began in St. Clair for Bitty ball so I've been playing ever since I was nine. I've played on 15 organized teams and have had fun doing it all." Joel Whymer ('03) added, "I started seriously in fifth grade and started to really like the game and now I play all the time."

Not only did they start playing when they were little, but they also work on and off the court. "We run a lot to get in shape and we do a lot of ball handling. To get prepared for the big game I listen to some music and stay focused on the game. The team runs a lot and practices as hard as possible." said Aaron Butch ('06). Wes Nordin ('05) says, "I picture myself being in the game and playing as hard as possible throughout practice with free throws, running, and drills. The team does many things to prepare for a game like study our opponent. We all try our best to earn a better spot so we play our best." Many of the guys also lift weights outside of practice to buff up. Maros Coronado ('06) says, "I lift weights in my spare time, and sometimes go on short jogs." While playing the game Marco thinks, "What do I do if I get the ball?"

All the teams work hard and have a lot of fun playing. Some of their favorite parts about playing is how "basketball allows us to hang out with our friends and teammates." Comments Daniel Reed ('06), and Jamie Peters ('06).

people can play for a lifetime. Girls on all the volleyball teams bond with each other and have a lot of fun competing. They all enjoy their coaches who give them a lot of encouragement and support.

The Varsity Volleyball team had a great season. All the girls worked really hard and had a lot of fun! "The best moment of Varsity Volleyball would have to be playing Marysville, because our team is always so pumped to play them," commented Karleigh Baker ('03).

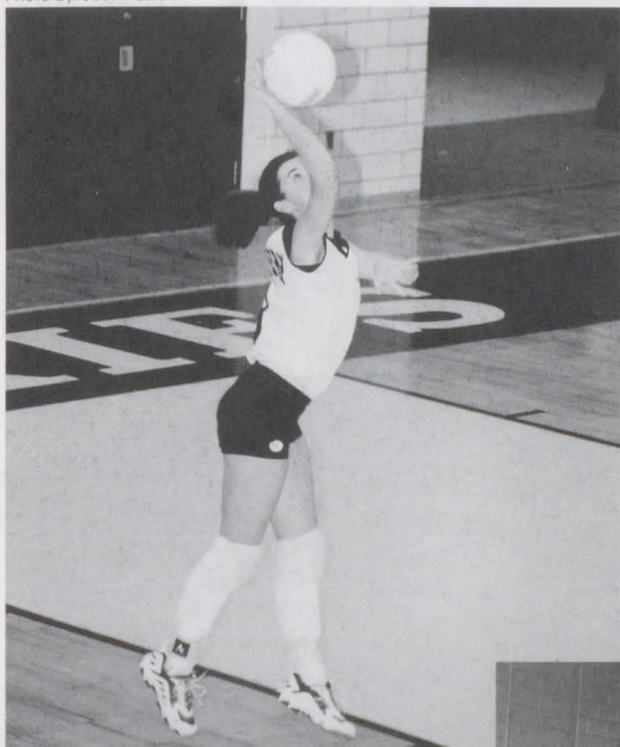

The JV Volleyball team had a successful season as well. All the girls on the JV team got along really well, almost like they're part of a family. "The best part of JV Volleyball is how much better the competition is than last year. The girls on the team are great! When we have team dinners it's like sitting down to dinner with family," stated Mary Hickey ('05). They started out their season by winning their first tournament. "Winning our first tournament against Marysville in the finals was the best moment about JV Volleyball. It was the first tournament our coach, Krista Daniels, won to begin her coaching career," exclaimed Katie Hesterberg ('05). The Freshmen Volleyball team started out their first volleyball season at home advantage with a bang! They had a very successful season. They enjoyed playing as a team and made many friendships. As you can see, all the volleyball teams like to compete, work together, bond with each other, and have tons of fun along the way.

Swift Strokes

"Well, we have a swim team, but no pool." This statement was made by many swim team enthusiasts for Northern at the beginning of the fall season, and mostly by the coach, Mr. Vincent. Coach Vincent worked together with the captains (one from each school), Jackie Blair ('03) and Andrea Everhart ('05) and the parents to keep the team together and going strong. Swimming has had a tough time as a sport and club at Northern, but it was finally successful for the 2002 Fall season. For the first time ever, a swim team was born for the high schools of Port Huron. Practices started out in the summer at Sanborn Pool, and then once a week at the YMCA after that. But because of the lack of pool time during the season, the swimmers were encouraged to swim on their own at least 3 times a week. When asked what a normal practice consists of, Jennifer Wallis ('04) replied, "We warm up with 500m which is 20 laps. Then stretch for 5 min. Then we do sprints for all four strokes normally 4 of each. Then we do 50m drills either kicking or arms. Then we work on starts, play games and do a 10 lap cool down. Normally we have about 2 hour long practices. I also do a lot of weights, cardiovascular workouts, and running."

This year, the Red Dawgs participated in 7 swim meets, which is about half as many as usual, because they had no home pool to host the meets. It takes a lot to prepare for meets especially when swimming dual events. Sarah Merritt ('04) said, "Before a race I walk around, stretch out my muscles. Before I swim I focus on my time, state times and what I need to do in order to make states. I also focus on how deep I should dive and how hard I should flip." Sometimes the girls would lose overall because the opponent teams of 30+ members outnumbered them, or by losing the diving events, in which Port Huron had no participants (or diving coaching). Jolene Bricker ('03) said "My thoughts depend on the distance of the race. If its long, you concentrate on your stroke, making sure its effective, and also on the other swimmers to see who's in the lead and try and catch them. If it's shorter the thoughts are usually just to get to the end as fast as I can."

The female Red Dawgs are hopeful for another great season. Even though they are losing a handful of seniors, a lot of talent remains, with room for more; and if there is enough interest, a men's swim team may begin for the winter season of Red Dawgs swimming and diving.

Grudge Match

To pump up his confidence, the team gives Michael Wood ('04) some advice. The "send off" is done for all the wrestlers to get ready for a match.

With the ref looking at his shoulders to see if he's down, Justin Roesch ('03) performs the unbreakable "Michigan Cradle". Justin was one of the captains on the team.

What is wrestling? It's a test of endurance, a challenge of strength, and a testament of the mind. It's also about the trails of teamwork and friendship.

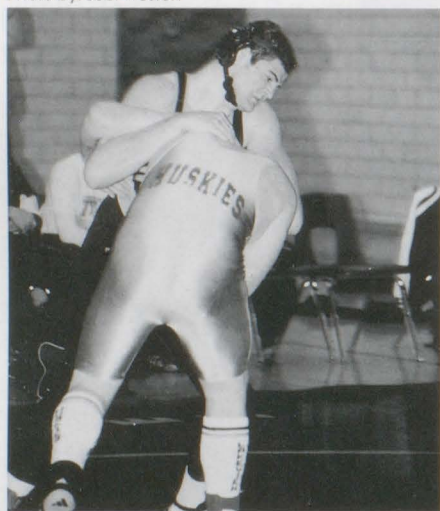

The wrestling team faces hardships as well as triumphs. "The most painful wrestling move is the 'T-lock'" states David Brown ('04) remembering past pains. "After you get in that, you don't want to move again," he adds. Joe Murphy ('03) comments, "I like to use the Splade during my matches to finish off my opponent."

The wrestling team is a tightly knit organization. They keep up each other's morale by pushing them beyond their limitations. Most of this motivation comes from the team captains Joe "The Spider" Murphy, Nick Campau, Justin Brown and Justin Roesch, all seniors.

Somewhere within the six minute grudge match, these guys show how wrestling is more than a sport. "I love my team and my coaches, we are all very close," says Matthew Eschker ('03). It's a way of life.

Imagine this...as you walk into the arena you feel an intense chill quivering through your body. Proceeding into the bleachers, the "swoosh" of metal blades scraping the ice catches your attention. Then all of a sudden the crowd belts out "GOAL".

Brian Ward ('05) reminisced, "My best memory of hockey is when I scored my first and only goal of the season." The boys hockey team is packed with enormous amounts of talent and charisma. Their daring abilities bring in crowds of spirited fans. "Playing in front of such a supportive school is my favorite part of hockey," commented Daniel Sniegocki ('04).

Even with all the padding, sometimes there's still more damage than anticipated. Occasionally an unexpected check can result in an ambulance ride. "I've been injured countless times since I started playing, but twice seriously during high school. Once I got knocked unconscious for an hour and then I separated my shoulder," explained Eric Olmstead ('03).

Regardless of the countless bumps and bruises, the boys hockey team kept up a dedicated momentum. The Ice Dawgs formed lasting friendships through practices and tough games during the frantic season. Their will to succeed has carried them to many victories on and off the ice. Brett Wille ('05) recalled with sincerity, "My favorite part of hockey is having the feeling of when my team isn't going to give up no matter what."

Smiling at the crowd, the Varsity cheer team starts round one with a bang at Oxford. The Varsity team had a tough season, but came out cheerful.

Flying High

The competitive cheerleaders took the mat, spaced themselves out and ready to blow your mind away! Anxiety began to overwhelm the cheer dawgs.

A Northern cheerleader "Holds high standards to acheive our goals. We worked hard everyday and it is finally paying off," recalls Amanda Kreh ('03). To the competitive cheerleaders it's all about cheerleading with your soul. As Samantha Becker ('05) puts it "The most dedicated part of cheerleading, is showing up everyday for practice. If one girl doesn't show the whole team can't mount or even work on our timing."

When the students hear the word "cheerleaders," they think of jumpy, preppy screaming girls, but the Northern competitive cheer "dawgs" put in many demanding hours. They eat, sleep, and breathe cheerleading. "I found the JV cheer team very time consuming, and took a lot of dedication and hard work. It also takes a lot of patience, teamwork, and practice," announced Jessica Pedrys ('06).

The ladies bonded as a true team does. "Husky dawgs won't give in," yells the competitive cheer team. These ladies will never give in to the pressure of dedication.

All those ordinary classes

The bulk of our school schedules was generally packed full of all those ordinary classes during our high school years. You know, like Science, Math, English, Social studies...the classes we took year after year. They may have sometimes been a drag, but at least we had a lot of choices to get our six semesters of required credits in each academic category.

Social Studies courses started off with civics freshman year, which taught things like government, core democratic values, and sometimes geography. After that, you could choose American History (offered in Advanced Placement) or any of the other social science electives. Some people really enjoyed these, like Fernando Rodreiguez ('05), who said, "History was an easy and fun class to take." However, during senior year we were all blessed to take the infamous Problems of Democracy, which was also known as P.O.D., where students would spend countless hours reading articles and watching the news for newsworthy points. Since P.O.D. was the only required class for seniors, a lot of students worked hard to have all their credits by senior year to take it easy, to leave space open in their schedules for things like Tec or Co-op., or take on extra AP courses to become better prepared for college.

During high school, the majority of us took different levels of Algebra to get our math semesters in. There was also Integrated math, Geometry, Trigonometry, Probability and Statistics/Discrete math, and AP Calculus.

Biology was generally where freshmen started out in the sciences, but they would also have other choices like General Physical Science, Earth Science, and General Life Science. From there, Chemistry (CP and AP), Physics, Biology AP, and Anatomy/Physiology could have been taken. And if you are into dissecting cats and smelling like preservatives, Anatomy is for you!

Finally, English courses helped to fine-tune our reading and writing skills. Writing from Literature was required, but there were a lot of academic options here, too. American Literature, Writing Process, Advanced Composition/Research Techniques and AP English were all available to get our English credits.

Taking these core classes is just something we had to do to get through school. As much as we think, "We will never use this stuff!", we probably will at some point or another. So, give them a try, and who knows, you may have learned something.

Expanding our horizons

Pencils, paper and homework were all necessities for school this year. What about candy, potato chips and pop? For some students their daily supply of sugar was just as important as their school supplies. Luckily, the school store brought these items and others to the students. Behind the register were the students who took the elective class called marketing, who busied themselves ordering and receiving merchandise, maintaining financial records, preparing daily sales deposits, stocking merchandise and taking inventory. And for what? "I want to work in the marketing field after graduation and this is good experience for that," said Nathan Lynch ('04).

There were a variety of other ways to gain some experience for the future with electives here at Northern. Shawna Post ('04), who took the business law class, did just that; "I joined to see my options open with the future. I wanted to explore how lawyers worked on cases and to learn more about our justice system." Although a lot of students have been thinking about their future, some are taking electives for something they aren't used to, like Molly Tuttle ('05), who says, "Performing arts class is different, fun, amusing, and always new!" Performing arts focused on the different aspects of drama and they learned how to project their voices and do different combat moves.

There were also a variety of computer-related elective courses at Northern, like keyboarding, computer applications, and web publishing, for those interested in technology. Ryan Thrushman ('05) took web publishing and explained that "We got to design a web page, and I really recommend this class because it was a good challenge."

There were a lot of other choices for electives. Health was a required class, which is usually taken by freshman. There was also broadcast arts, radio, mythology/folklore, Shakespeare, yearbook, Business technology, TV production, and drafting. With so many choices, students were likely to find classes they liked to make school more interesting.

Leaving school grounds

Do you like getting away from school? If you do, you're not alone. Many students were in school-away-from-school, through programs like dual enrollment, the TEC center, Co-Op and aiding at Elementary schools. This allowed students to further their career education and leave Northern while doing things they enjoyed. Robert Wells ('03) agrees, "[I chose Computer Aided Drafting at TEC] because I wanted to get out of school but also I wanted to major in architecture."

In dual enrollment, students took courses at St. Clair County Community College to get ahead in their college credits or to try out a class for something new. Autumn Horan ('03) comments, "I liked dual enrollment a lot. It's a good experience and helped prepare me for what college is going to be like. I took psychology and I think that will be all for now. I recommend it to anyone who is planning to go to college and wants a challenge."

Out-of-school aiding was also popular among upperclassmen, where they assisted Elementary school teachers with their classes. Most of the students who participated in this were planning to go into Elementary Education, like Nicole Medrano ('03), who says "I enjoy working with children and it is a good experience for anyone wanting to be a teacher."

Co-op allowed students who were employed during school hours to receive credit. All of these programs appealed to upperclassmen, especially seniors because they had more open space on their school schedules in blocks of two or more classes.

Maximum physical effort

"Pull the mats together, set-ups everyone!" This was the special hello heard by students every morning in Coach Hammond's wrestling theory, where he used his prep hour for the class. Students like Dustin Youngs ('05) joined wrestling theory "Because it helped me out with my skills." Like many of the other sports theory classes, the wrestlers worked out in the weight room three days a week.

Another popular class was softball/baseball theory, where all the aspects of both baseball and softball were addressed. Students learned such things as the history of the game, positioning, along with offensive and defensive strategies. Since this class was new this year, no one really knew what to expect. But it seemed that it turned out pretty well and had positive feedback, as Steve Young ('05) commented, "I think it was a great experience. It helped me to learn new things and more about what you already knew. It gave you time to do things that you enjoyed doing, and helped to get you farther during high school. It couldn't have gotten any better." The class would go outside to the diamonds three times a week, but it varied from day to day what they would do.

There were also some other sports theory classes, including football, volleyball, and basketball, which did much of the same things, only they would associate the aspects of their own sport into the classes.

Another way to get in shape was with weights and conditioning class, which was very popular among the upperclassmen guys (although some strong females did participate). But most of the girls who wanted a weight class would take weights and aerobics, which did a variety of cardiovascular and aerobic exercises along with weight lifting.

Other basic options included general male or female gym classes, or the co-ed recreational sports class. The bottom line is this; no matter what the class, students kept in shape.

Languages and foreign places

Although some, like Amelia Brown ('03), have 'been there, done

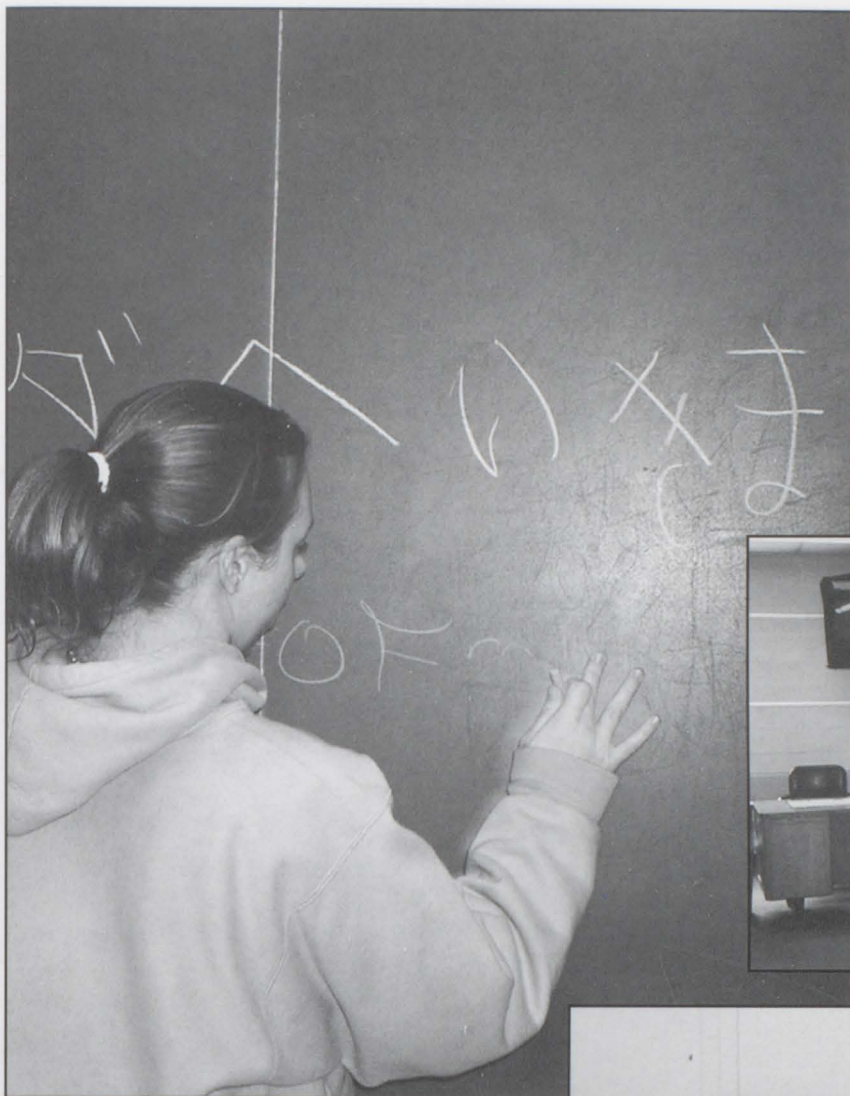

Some may have experienced this outside the classroom this year, as Japan was brought to Northern through two Japanese exchange students, Akari Furukawa and Nozomi Kawamori. These young ladies not only were living an American life, but they shared what their lives were like in Japan with all of Northern during their speeches at the fall academics assembly, where they also dressed in attire they would wear in their home countries. Jan Gajewski and Eva Meyer-Schwickerath, who were both from Germany, also made speeches at the assembly and joined Akari and Nozomi as foreign exchange students. So whether it was in a classroom, or in another country, languages were expressed in Northern lives.

Activities

Husky History

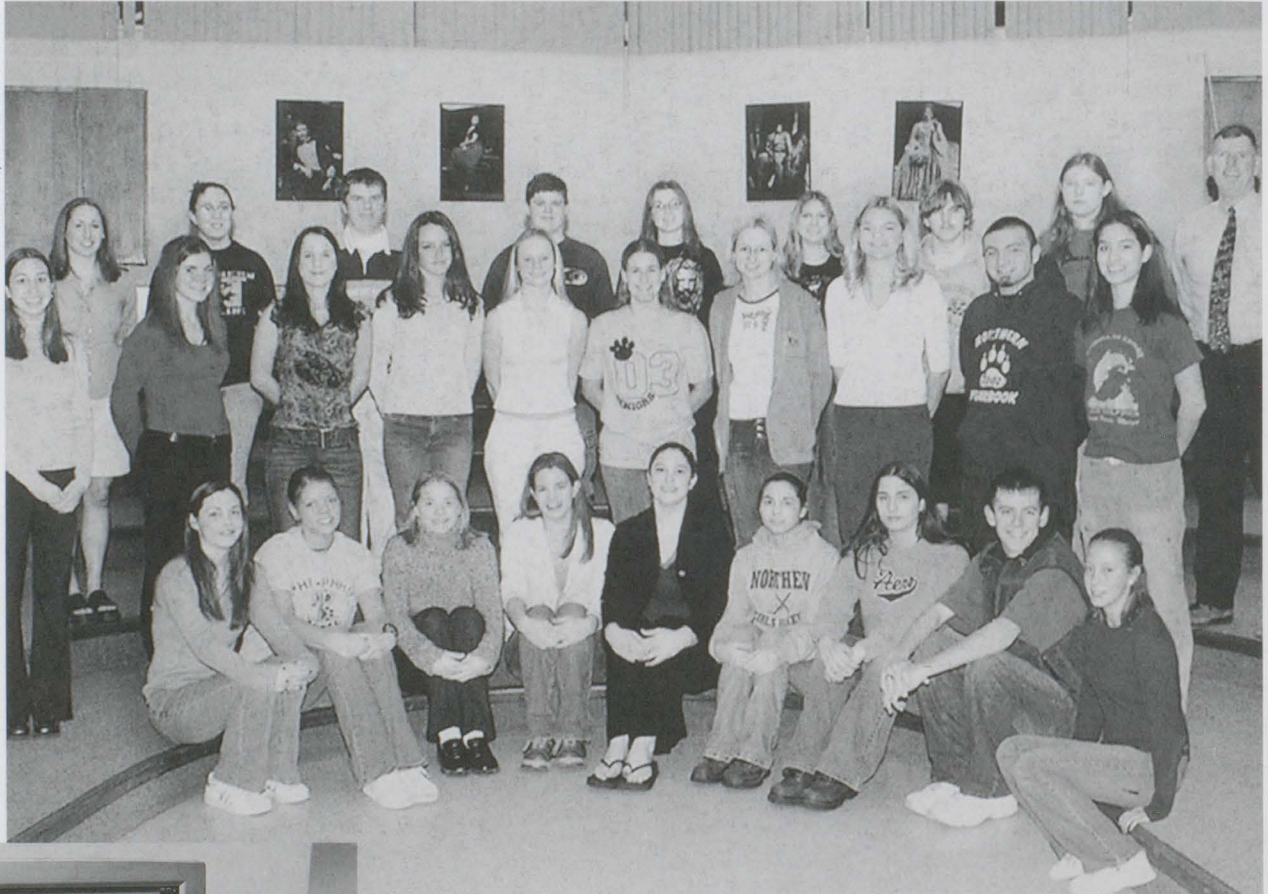

Cropping, copy, picas, captions, leading, and deadlines. The many foreign terms heard within the boundaries of the yearbook class. The staff are over-ruled by the 10 senior editors who help advisor Mr. Dennis Dwyer determine the given guidelines. The entire crew of workers were required to complete the "wonderful" editor assignments. These were obligations expected to be accomplished with full responsibility by both the staff and editorial members.

Not only is yearbook a class but many days and nights were spent outside of school by the dedicated personell of this traditional organization. Many hours have been logged throughout the school year being imprisoned within the walls of Port Huron Northern and the yearbook room, room 308. The custodians and administrative staff have grown to become familiar with the "die hard" fans of trying to make this yearbook a success.

When all is said and done, the people outside of the yearbook threshold will never truly know and appreciate the extent and the amount of time put into bringing the student body together within the bounds of a 268 page book that will forever last.

Extra, Extra...

Do you like to write and take pictures? If you do, newspaper might be for you! Even though it involves lots of hardwork and tons of deadlines, it can be fun. "The newspaper is a great way to inform students about the different things that have happened at school," replied Erica Baily('05). There are many different positions to fill including editor-in-chief, and the editors for each section.

You get to put your own creative twist in your story to make it interesting to your readers. Marcella Kamendat ('04) commented, "My favorite thing about newspaper is designing and editing the paper." So if these things appeal to you maybe newspaper is the place for you.

Marching On

As Emilee Caughel puts it, "It takes a lot of love and devotion to be out on the field at 6:30 a.m. in the cold weather everyday." The members of Marching Band are out on the football field while the rooster is still sleeping away. They're dedicated, hard-working, and proud to be known as "banders".

"The band creates such a strong family atmosphere and its the 'family' that leads us to our success," Junior Drum Major, Micah Stanislawski (04), comments proudly. And there is no doubt that they are successful! This is apparent as Colorguard Captain, Becca

Plant (03) recalls, "The best part about the season was getting a first division at MSBOA! We worked so hard to get it and it all paid off!"

The Marching Huskies are one of the smallest bands in the area with only fifty-one members. Despite this fact, their show, consisting of "Lord of the Rings", "Night on Bald Mountain", and "Psycho", won them 1st at Michigan Festival.

Let's not forget what those football games would be like without the band getting the crowd going at every possible opportunity.

Challenge This...

"The Beat Goes On." The students of Northern bands could honestly agree with this. Countless hours are put into reading and playing their music. Day after day rehearsing the same piece, and what for? Perfection and self pride!

What most students don't understand is that band is more than playing. "We play for the love of it," Amelia Brown ('03) replied. "Banders" love the challenge of not knowing how you're going to sound, or what is going to come next.

With every challenge comes another. Wind Symphonic is the elite band offered at Northern. "We play consistent sixteenth notes, followed by scale work," J.R. Brown ('05) explains. If you don't feel the need for the challenge of Northern's top band, you could enter the wild world of concert band.

Every year the Port Huron Northern bands put on three very different concerts. A Christmas concert which rang in "Sleigh Bells" along with other hit songs. Then a winter recital, where you hear the top players who have reached State's. Then mid-way into the year, you hear the bands finishing up the school year with the playing of "Pomp and Circumstance" as their way of saying good-bye to the Seniors.

Note Worthy

"Gloria, Gloria, oooo". As the Women's Ensemble prepare for the Christmas Concert, the students work diligently to perfect their singing. Everyone looked forward to this wonderful concert, where they show their accomplishments for the first time in front of rows upon rows of people. Emily Robb ('05) stated with enthusiasm, "I'm really looking forward to the concert and performing more difficult music."

Choir requires a lot of dedication from it's members. Everyday students come to class prepared to give their best performance; even if it was just practice. For some, tuning their voice was difficult and harmonizing was a hassle, but for others it was a great accomplishment. "We tune ourselves to sound awesome as a group. It is kind of difficult but the rewards are great," stated Stephanie Norton ('03).

Mrs. Manuilow spent countless hours with the choirs of PHN and also PHHS. "Mrs. Manuilow makes singing in choir fun and interesting," Jessica Rock ('03) said with a smile. There are many reasons people join choir, including getting a chance to hit the high note and exercise their love for music. Most people agreed that choir was an unforgettable experience.

The music slowly fades as an energetic voice announces, "You're listening to the best and only high school radio station in the Blue Water Area, WORW 91.9 FM, 'The Wave.' Keep riding the wave!" WORW broadcasted live Monday through Thursday from 6:30 AM to 7:00 PM and Fridays from 6:30 AM to 5:00 PM. Students dedicated their time into making the station interesting. To keep listeners enthused, a new DJ took over every hour. Each student played a wide variety of music and also took requests and dedications.

Radio was not just fun and games though. As a requirement students had to take both Speech and Broadcasting classes and then be interviewed by the one and only Mrs. Storey. Jolene Bricker ('03) stated, "Radio helped me learn how to express myself. It gave me a specific 'group' that I belong to and that I could be part of. I will really miss it next year."

Gutter ball

"We have a bowling team?" asked J.R. Brown. Yes, we do. Bowling was one of the many activities in our school that goes unrecognized. The Port Huron Northern bowling team was composed of ten girls and eleven guys from every grade. Each and every bowler had to be available every Monday and Wednesday for practices at Port Huron Lanes. They also had to be there for matches, which were on many different days, including Saturdays. You might think that bowling is all fun, but it's not always that way. Blake Rossi ('04) stated, "It's hard work, but we have a lot of fun!" Students joined the bowling team for many different reasons, some just to have fun and others to get better for their leagues. Krista Pauly ('03) said she joined because "Kevin, my boyfriend, got me my first bowling ball for our one year anniversary. And after I tired it out, I realized how much fun it is to bowl. Thanks Kevin!" While Jackie Piechotte('04) joined simply because "We bowl for free, we have fun, and there are hott guys! What more can I say? (Lefty's rule!) So now that you know we do have a bowling team, and you like to bowl, this just may be the club for you.

"Encore...Encore"

Webster's dictionary defines "drama" as "prose written for actors to perform", but to any of the participants it means so much more.

"Everyone thinks it is just memorizing lines," remarked J.R. Brown ('05), "we have to express angst or happiness. You literally have to become a character for three months."

It takes more than mere acting flair to get a play off the ground, "The backstage crew is the glue that holds the performance together," explains Ben Nofs ('03), director of last year's play, "Makin' It".

During the show, it's important for the crew to be silent, yet forceful, in their duties. "It takes a lot of talent to keep people behind the line," confirmed Jane McMillan ('03).

Last year's production of "Makin' It" was about the pressures of being a teenager. "We received a ton of positive feedback on the substantiality of the play for explaining the roles of cliques in everyday high school life," proudly commented Natalie May ('05).

The previous year's production was definitely unique due to the fact that it was put on by a cast and crew comprised almost entirely of students. The club advisor, Ms. Teff was merely there for instructional pointers. "She is an amazing lady with an outstanding personality that nobody could possibly top," mentioned Kara Smith ('05).

This year's play was "Carousel" directed by the "new" advisor Ms. Dowd. She isn't a stranger to the drama family directing the previous productions; "South Pacific," "The Sound of Music," and "Oklahoma."

"Carousel" was a way for the Drama Club to get back to its musical roots. It was a performance to be remembered and cherished.

Working Together

"Smoking is a terrible habit. If we can prevent just one kid from smoking, we have done our job." Mr Farnsworth embodied the spirit of the Teens Against Tobacco Use organization with these words. T.A.T.U. was open to anyone interested in combating the tobacco epidemic. This nationwide organization was started at Northern in 2000. Only students who truly cared about teaching others about tobacco became members. "I decided to join because people very close to me smoke and I wanted to learn how I could help them to quit, or not smoke quite as much," stated Amanda Gear('05).

Northern has a zero tolerance rule for alcohol and tobacco use. T.A.T.U. and S.A.D.D. both try to inform students about the hazards of alcohol and tobacco. Students Against Drunk Driving were successful this year in stressing to students and the community that too many lives are lost to drunk driving every year.

Q and A

Is that the answer? This question comes up a lot especially in Quiz Bowl and Y.E.S. with questions being asked and answers to be found. These two organizations come together on a common ground.

Quiz Bowl tests your knowledge in a variety of areas such as science, history, and math. While the Young Educators Society wishes to someday teach the knowledge that is needed to answer the questions. Quiz Bowl competes against other schools and did very well. Y.E.S. organized many activities and had many new members! Quiz bowl and Y.E.S. both held meetings on Wednesday after school. In order to obtain knowledge you must first be taught it. Y.E.S. members are the ones who want to teach it.

"Pack" Leaders

Leadership is what student council is all about. The students involved in Student Council love to be involved. They take part in tons of activities that help others. Including many activities through out the school.

Mardi Gras was the first big activity student council was involved in. During Mardi Gras Student Council members help out with making Spirit Week, selling tickets for the dance, counting the money in the penny jars, selling food and refreshments at the dance, and many of other things as well. This may seem like a lot but they always pull it off and do a great job making Mardi Gras a big success.

Many of the members are involved in this organization because it helps to keep them informed about what activities are going on in out school. Sarah Leslie ('05) commented, "I like Student Council because it keeps me informed with school events and it's really fun to be involved in it."

Other activities Student Council was involved in is the Canned Food Drive and Teacher Appreciation Day. All the members are very involved in all these activities have a lot of fun doing it.

Helping Others

Dedicated to helping others, National Honor Society is filled with young responsible students that strive academically. They met every other Thursday morning at 7:00 am in the Performing Arts Room to discuss upcoming volunteer opportunities. Each member was required to achieve a certain amount of volunteer points to keep their membership in NHS.

When asking members why they joined NHS, Liz Dilworth('03) replied, "I enjoy helping others and it gives me a chance to share my knowledge with others." Volunteer work is a major part of NHS. Their volunteer work consists of Meals on Wheels, Habitat for Humanity, a scholarship luncheon, and tutoring fellow students and throughout the middle schools and elementary schools around the area. Jenny Cote('03) said, "I like NHS because I am able to help people who are in need. Its a good experience that has taught me a lot."

For those of you that are interested in joining NHS you must have a 3.0 grade point average or higher and recommendations from faculty members as well as coaches. An induction ceremony is held every October for new members. So if NHS sounds like fun, then strive for those good grades!

After the induction ceremony, senior NHS officers Craig Flemingloss, Stephen Degrow, Holly Muir, Maureen Kelley, and advisors Mrs. Carol Goldfarb and Mrs. Ann Murphy put on a happy face despite all the stress. Although the induction ceremony was a very important event, those in charge were happy to get it over with.

Do you know the muffin men? The muffin men? Yes, the muffin men, who live in room 307. Every Thursday TMI students prepare the batter and bake dozen of muffins. The students take them to 3rd hour classes. The don't just bake muffins, the students are also hard at work, Tuesdays, baking and selling cookies.

The TMI student learn basic living skills: cooking, cleaning up, and how to work with newspapers. Cody Ayotte (06) happily states, "Newspapers are fun to work on."

Along with learning basic living skills the students also take mandatory class: science, gym, math, etc.. " Math is my favorite subject , the teacher is nice," replied Christian Johnson (04)

All the students can agree that they enjoyed the class. " I like working in the classroom," smiled Jack Lavere (04). The experiences in this class will last forever as they live their lives.

Ice Cold

"Tie up those skates girls and let's show them how to work the ice." In order to make the stunts perfect, the figure skating team put in a lot of time and effort. At the same time it can be a good experience for everyone involved. Jenny Thomas ('04) replies, "The demands of being on the figure skating team is that it requires a lot of practice. Just like any other sport you can't just practice with the team, you must also improve your personal skills on your own!"

Competitions let the skaters show the skills they have to master in practice. Erica Politowicz ('04) commented, "Competitions for me are very exciting. I have a great time hanging out with my skating friends and cheering them on! Competitions are a time to show off all your hard work and reach for the goal. They make you feel excited and determined." The girls of the figure skating team have a close bond that helps them pull through close competitions. Katie Wiegand ('03) states "The girls are a really big family and we have all grown up together, so getting to spend so much time with each other is great, and if we get to represent our school at the same time its even better." The music has to come to an end as the crowd cheers and girls will have lasting memories they will never forget.

Word Plays

What do you do in your free time? Well, the members of the Book Club and the North Stars love to read and dance, respectively. Megan Firestone ('03) comments, "You get to meet some great people while having fun dancing." Ellie Johnston('04) added, "I'm glad that we read a better variety of books than in literature classes. Everyone gets a say in what we read instead of it being assigned."

The North Stars, just like the cheerleading squads, give it their all at the home games. These girls did not dance for attention, but to have fun, which is a goal they obviously reach at each performance.

The students in Book Club did not get written assignments. Rather, they got to discuss each book they read in depth. "It's my first year in Book Club and my favorite book was Skipping Christmas by John Grisham," commented Anna Pope('04).

The Book Club read a lot of different books this year. They had a meeting every month to discuss the previous month's book. There are those who work their bodies, and those who work their minds in their free time. The members of each of these clubs made the choice that they enjoyed the most and had the opportunity to share that interest with fellow students.

Dear Huskies,

"We're hungry, where is Tamara?" Every time you turn around Susan or Christina would be bellowing for food. Our yearbook for 2002-2003 was unique from other years past, trying to prove to the student body how strange we really are! The editor's office was full of estrogen, nine of the ten editors were females, but everyone got along, Joel just never won, Nicole shaking her head, that's right women's rights, I'll step on you! Everything ran smoothly until computers started turning on beeping or just not turning on at all. We did order a new computer out of our budget, which caused a few small fights. Again Joel didn't win!

Training new staff members was a fun ordeal teaching everything from cropping pictures to using the computers, to telling them not to take pictures of them self's (Kate!) We also learned this year that we must have a plan B for pictures due for deadlines. Speaking of deadlines, we set a goal to meet deadlines, it's just that line is sometimes a little crooked often spending very late nights working and creating spreads out of nothing!

Mr. Dwyer would say; "you two will feel like you're an old married couple," we often did often feel like that sometimes when it came down to making decisions on how we wanted the yearbook to look, but all went well when we compromised our ideas and came up with the ideas we liked. Although we had our stressful times, we as a "team" always managed to pull through, if it wasn't for our editors and their dedication we would have never been able to bring you this yearbook. We hope this yearbook brings back the good times as you flip through remembering your crush, favorite teachers, least favorite teacher or the people that you spent most of your teen age life with. And for the seniors reading this we hope we made this yearbook successful for you along with the memories that will be cherished in your mind for all time. For the underclassmen is that, we hope it made more memories to add on to your memories. As we finish this last sentence we wish the PHN the best continuing the pride, commitment of being the best and fulfilling dreams as well being one of the greatest in the area. We leave this school entering the world with confidence that we could only get from these four walls, four walls of understanding.

Sincerely your editors - in - chief,

Nicole Medrano

The 2003 Spirit: "The Day in the Life" of represents the unity and diversity of those who make Port Huron Northern. Even though the school has many faces they all form one unified high school. Edit-in-chief Nicole Medrano and Joel Weston, along with business managers Christina Giardini and Susan Jerman, and section editors Sarah McBrien, Lisa Phare, Shannon Bankson, Jessica Hart, Jackie Blair, and Andrea McDonald lead this intensive effort with the assistance of 21 staff members. The result of the project was this 284 page manuscript was completed by using PageMaker® 6.5 planned and produced and marketed by the student, staff and editors.

The Herff-Jones production company in Shawnee Mission, Kansas printed Spirit 2002-2003 for the students to enjoy and cherish for year to come. The yearbook was sold at $45.00 depending on when you mailed in the order form. 29 pages were printed in 4-color process, the cover is a quarter bound solarization with the school mascot name embossed surrounded by "people" gain. End sheets are ghost background photo to 20% print over copy in 100% black. Paper stock is 80# Bordeaux. Also included is a Herff-Jones world yearbook. Headline and caption treatments vary by section; body copy is in Century Gothic font. Port Huron Northern is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association (CSPA) and Michigan Interscholastic Press Association (MIPA). Four associations have critiqued Spirit over the past 13 years, winning nine Spartan Awards from MIPA and several first place as well as many gold and bronze awards from CSPA.

The goal of Spirit staff was to produce a quality journalistic yearbook also different that would be treasured by staff, students, and their families for years to come. This collection of school news, history, and entraining recollections was produced with revenue developed through book and ad sales along with resources made available by the PHASD. Mr. Dennis Dwyer has been the yearbook advisor as well as teacher for 3 years.

Acknowledgements

The Spirit Staff would like to thank the staff and student of Port Huron Northern High School for their continued support and assistance in the creation of this yearbook. Special thanks go out to Mrs. Jo Monaghan, principal and asst. principals Mrs. Cheryl Wojtas, Mr. Chip Mossett, Mr. Gregg Wager, and Mrs. Marion Forrest for their constant encouragement and enthusiasm. Valued staff members for any yearbook staff is the office and secretarial staff, in particular; Mrs. Cathy Cassidy for her help with sports scores, picture, and many other details involving the sports programs at PHN and Mrs. Myra Brennan for the financial and bookkeeping expertise. Dr. Al Lewandowski, Mr. Michael Falk for their ongoing technological support, as well as all the other media specialist involved in production of press passes and networking for the computers. Mrs. Peggy Devendorf for her continual advice throughout the year, adding her valued opinions that always help see other side of things.

The Spirit Staff extends its appreciation to Port Huron Meijer for the entire picture processing and taking the time to make the prints the best quality that is possible. The staff also recognizes Mr. Dennis MacDonald for this team and group pictures as well as his necessary sense of humor on stressful days.

Special thanks also go to Mr. Anthony Noto for his invaluable assistance as the Herff-Jones sales representative, Mrs. Ann Rome, Herff-Jones Plant consultant, Mr. Dave Smith for this amazing sense of art with the cover design that was exactly what we were looking for, and the entire staff of the Herff-Jones plant who worked diligently to produce quality yearbooks.

Now do you see the differences that surround our campus at Northern? Occasionally you will hear the Husky Cheerleaders bark the cheer "You wish you were a Husky!" Doesn't everyone want to be a Husky? It takes more than being a student to be called one; you have to want it. It takes desire, work, heart, and pride! If you ask any football player, cheerleader, artist, choir performer, class officer, color guard member, or any other involved student, they will tell you that the best is expected here so the best is what they have to be!

over the illegal weapons. Port Huron suffered only a mild, yet piercingly bitter winter. The snow in the parking lot made the security guard earn his keep, calling many students down to park correctly. Once again of our dignified extra-curricular organizations captured the attention of other school districts, while entertaining many with their performance, of which were perfected with tireless hours of sweat and work.

Most yearbook editors knew their world to be contained to a 20x10 ft. office in the back room 308. Late nights and early tests, not to mention every senior's new found love; Newspoints, thanks Mrs. Rogers! Few editors were often asked where do you live again, or where do you sleep? We all take pride in our work, that pride is called "Husky Pride."

In Twenty to twenty-five years when you pull this book off the shelf to see what someone looked like or explain to your kids what made Northern different from all the other high schools and what it meant to you, then you will realize the amount of that "Husky Pride" we took in making this book. This book only showed roughly five to six seconds of our lives, but the memories within those minor seconds are truly priceless and cherished. These are some of the best years in life. Be proud to be called a Husky!

THE WAR ON TERRORISM

Over the course of the year, the world's attention focused on a chain of tumultuous terrorist events. In Afghanistan, the Taliban regime fell from power as U.S. troops crippled the al-Qaeda network and cleared caves in search of Osama bin Laden. World-wide, civilians and military personnel fell victim to terrorist bombs and acts of hatred. On the home front, "bioterrorism" became a common term after it was revealed that Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein was producing biological weapons. Hussein's defiance of United Nation's imposed sanctions prompted the United States to seek world support of military action against Iraq. Members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization wrestled over conflicting opinions on the issue, while North Korean leader Kim Jong Il threatened to deploy nuclear weapons if Iraq was attacked. As tensions rose among political leaders, the world watched and waited to see what the next chapter in "The War on Terrorism" would bring.
